Russia Declares War on Bulgaria

By J. EDWARD MURRAY
Exclusive to The Edmonton Bulletin

LONDON, Sept. 5.—(BUP)—Russia declared war on Bulgaria tonight, accusing the Balkan country of continuing to provide bases for the German army despite repeated Allied warnings. Radio Moscow announced the Soviet declaration of war as a climax to a series of bitter Russian denunciations of the Bulgars. It came a few hours after Bulgaria, struggling to avert disaster, had declared her last ties with the Axis broken.

The new Bulgarian government formed last Saturday was reported to have ordered peace emissaries to conclude an armistice with Great Britain and the United States as soon as possible.

BULGARS HANDED NOTE

Soviet Foreign Commissar W. V. Molotov at 7 p.m. handed the Bulgarian minister a note breaking relations with Sofia and charging the Bulgars with a stubborn maintenance of favors to Germany, specifically the provision of bases in Bulgarian territory.

The Moscow radio said the note accused the Bulgars of helping Germany for three years, a position heretofore countenanced by the Russians since the Bulgars were in no position to resist the Nazis.

Although the Allies now have sealed the fate of Germany, Moscow said, making the Nazi defeat

Woman's Body Found

Man Arrested Here On Murder Charge

Frederick Leveillie, 28-year-old Good Fish Lake half-breed, was arrested and charged by city police with murder on Monday as a result of investigations into the death believed by suffocation, of 22-year-old Charlotte Hunter, Treaty Indian, of Good Fish Lake, whose body was discovered about 10:15 a.m. Sunday by two boys at the Grierson dump.

Also under arrest and held on a charge of vagrancy was Grace E. Favell, said by police to have attended a party which preceded the girl's death.

The charge of murder was read to Leveille Tuesday morning in the court of Magistrate A. L. Millar, KC. No plea was taken, the accused not having yet retained defence counsel. The case was then adjourned to Sept. 13.

Grace Favell entered a plea of not guilty to vagrancy, and her case likewise was remanded to the same date.

A third person, named as Edgar Whitford of Good Fish Lake, and a cousin of Leveillie's, believed to have departed for Lethbridge after the party, was being returned to Edmonton for questioning, police said.

Leveillie was arrested Monday afternoon, as he was walking along

Vote of Forces Fails to Change Results in N.B.

FREDERICTON, Sept. 5—(CP)—Members of the armed forces who voted in the New Brunswick general election voted in favor of Progressive Conservative candidates but the result of their voting, announced yesterday, was not sufficient to change the result of the civilian count which elected 36 Liberals and 12 Progressive Conservative members to the provincial legislature.

The service vote favored 28 Progressive Conservative candidates and 20 Liberals, while the CCF finished in third place in all constituencies except Madawaska where party candidates ran second to the Liberals.

POPULAR VOTE

The popular service vote showed Progressive Conservatives with a slight edge on the Liberals. For the Progressive Conservatives, 5,325 votes were cast out of a total of 12,625 with 5,655 going to the Liberals and 2,245 to the CCF.

These figures do not indicate the number of servicemen who voted, since many of them would have cast up to four ballots i the multi-seat constituencies.

In nine of the 17 countries, the soldier vote paralleled that of the civilian electorate, adding to the majorities rolled up by the candidates. In the other eight ridings, the service vote differed from the civilian results.

In no case, however, was the difference enough to bring any serious reduction in the lead of any of the winning candidates.

One of the countries where the service vote showed a reversal from the civilian balloting was in York, where Liberal Premier J. B. McNair and three running mates were elected. Here, the service vote showed a preference for the four Progressive Conservative candidates with the Liberals running second and the CCI third.

1,250 Warplanes Raid Reich Cities

By WALTER CRONKITE
Exclusive to The Edmonton Bulletin

LONDON, Sept. 5.— (BUP) — More than 1,250 warplanes swept ahead of the German-bound Allied armies today and hammered Karlsruhe, Stuttgart and Ludwigshafen, great Rhineland bastions anchoring the first line of defence of the Reich proper.

Upwards of 750 American heavy bombers were escorted by some 500 fighters in the three-pronged assault on the Rhineland area bordering the northeastern tip of France.

Improving "ceiling" enabled Allied air forces to resume action on a major scale. Coastal observers reported intense activity this afternoon, with all types of planes shuttling to and from Europe.

Start Exchange War Prisoners

Exclusive to The Edmonton Bulletin

STOCKHOLM, Sept. 5—(BUP)—An exchange of nearly 5,000 Allied and Axis prisoners of war and civilian internees will be made for a three-day period starting tomorrow at Goteborg and Trelleborg, Count Bernadotte of Wisborg, vice chairman of the Swedish Red Cross, announced today.

The first of 2,634 United Kingdom, Canadian and American repatriates will arrive in Trelleborg from Germany Thursday afternoon. The exchange ship Gripsholm with the first of 2,345 Germans who have been held in the United Kingdom, Canada and the United States was scheduled to reach Goteborg tomorrow.

Canadians, Britons Closing on Rimini

By CLINTON B. CONGER
Exclusive to The Edmonton Bulletin

ROME, Sept. 5.—(BUP)—United Kingdom and Canadian forces closed in today on the important Adriatic coast city of Rimini after a drive to within six miles of the southern edge of the Po River valley, while in the west U.S. Fifth Army troops approached Lucca and Prato, less than 10 miles from the Tyrrhenian Sea anchor of the Gothic line.

Expanding their bridgehead north of the Conca river into a square roughly five miles wide and three miles deep, Lt. Gen. Sir Oliver Lesse's Eighth Army infantry and tank units captured the villages of Misano, San Clemente and Montegallara, and drove into the suburbs of Riccione Marina, six miles south of Rimini.

Hitler's Three Judges

By Emil Ludwig

Article I.

THE FIRST JUDGE—THE GENERAL STAFF

This is the first of three articles by the eminent historian, Emil Ludwig, giving his view of the three principal factors that will bring about the end of Hitler—EDITOR.

Hitler's end is imminent. No company would sell insurance to this man of 55. One morning in the near future, you will read that he has been killed by a man of his inner circle.

He might have a chance to flee to Argentina. But when there, he would be saved only a few months longer. There is no chance that we will see the dramatic show in the newsreel, with Hitler behind prison bars. There will also be no Saint Helena for him, without which martyrdom Napoleon would scarcely have attained any sympathy in his time. I shall try to show why Hitler will be murdered in the course of the next two or three months.

His judge will not be the Allies, but the Germans. Three German judges will condemn him, the same men who raised him into power. His first judge will be the Prussian General Staff.

Why did the Austrian lad go to Berlin? Ambitious young men often leave their country to seek a more powerful fatherland for a successful career. For this reason, millions of Europeans left their countries for America. Hitler hated Austria and adored Prussia. When the first World War broke out, Hitler, at 25, entered the German army instead of the Austrian one.

Twelve years later, as the leader of a growing new party, he left Munich, where he had begun his political career, for Berlin, where the people laughed at his Southern

French Pacing Rapid Southern Invasion Drive

By ELEANOR PACKARD
Exclusive to The Edmonton Bulletin

ROME, Sept. 5. — (BUP) — French forces of the Allied Seventh Army drove up the west bank of the Saone river toda, to reach Le Villars, 16 miles north of Lyon and 55 miles south of Dijon, narrowing the last escape gap for Germans remaining in southern France west to the Saone.

A curtain of military secrecy again dropped over the progress of American troops east of the Saone, although as long ago as Sunday that already had passed through Montrevel and reached points less than 120 miles from the invasion armies of the north.

(Geneva dispatches reported the Americans had occupied Morez, 51 miles north of Le Villars, and four miles from the Swiss Frontier, and that the German garrison at that point had fled across the border to be interned.

Retract Rumor Nazis Quit War

Exclusive to The Edmonton Bulletin

LONDON, Sept. 5.—(BUP)—The Brussels radio broadcast a wholly unsupported rumor today that Germany had capitulated to the Allies and retracted it less than two hours later, adding that "the fight goes on."

Supreme headquarters said the broadcast rumor of German capitulation was untrue.

The capitulation report, heavily qualified at the outset, apparently originated from the garbling of a description of the capture of 10,000 Germans near Mons.

The second broadcast on the subject said:

"Dear listeners: We are obliged to tell you to our deep regret that a rumor, according to which Germany was alleged to have capitulated and which was this morning broadcast by a foreign station, has not been confirmed. The fight goes on."

The retraction broadcast was in Flemish, the original message in French and Flemish.

Unconfirmed Report Says Two German Cities Taken by Allies

By VIRGIL PINKLEY
Exclusive to The Edmonton Bulletin

SUPREME HEADQUARTERS, AEF, Sept. 5.—(BUP)—British armored forces plunged deeper into The Netherlands, 30 miles beyond Antwerp today to tighten a cordon pinning 100,000 Germans against the channel coast, and a frontline dispatch said troops of the American Third Army had reached the Moselle river in force between Metz and Nancy.

The lower side of the channel pocket was collapsing as Canadian troops speared within three miles of Boulogne on the Straits of Dover and the London Evening News said the German garrisons of Boulogne, Calais; Gravelines and Dunkerque were trying to escape by sea in a dramatic reversal of the British evacuation in 1940.

The headquarters announcement that Canadian troops had pushed near Boulogne, indicated that the south side of the pocket enclosing tens of thousands of Germans was

LONDON, Sept. 5—(CP)—Lt.-Gen. Kurt Dittmar, propaganda broadcaster for the German high command, told Germany tonight that a "deficiency of means places success out of our reach" and added that Germany's fate now rested in the hands of "our last reserves—the older age groups."

caving in. The barrier penning the Nazis to the coast was about 140 miles long, lying between the Boulogne area through Aire and Lille to Antwerp.

THOUSANDS SURRENDER

The Nazis, apparently doomed to death or capture, were reported surrendering by the thousands to the Canadians.

(AT THE SWISS-FRENCH FRONTIER, Sept. 5 — (AP) — Reports reaching this frontier tonight said the Allies had captured Aachen and Saarbrucken from three to five miles inside Germany.)

(No confirmation of this report was forthcoming from Allied supreme headquarters, which has maintained almost complete silence for several days on operations in the French-German border district.)

An official spokesman said the Antwerp port facilities, some of the best in western Europe, were in "quite good condition," since the Germans had little time to carry out their demolitions before yield-

Heavy Program

Vital Problems To Be Studied At Cabinet Meet

OTTAWA, Sept. 5.—(CP)—Discussions as important to Canada as any of the aged walls of the East Block on Parliament Hill have seen will be held today as a full meeting of the federal cabinet deals with a heavy program.

Capital sources said the meeting will be the first attended by practically all 20 members of the cabinet since the Commons adjourned last month.

Probable matters on the program include:

1. Prospect the war may be over sooner than expected, and Canada's part at the peace table.

2. Canada's participation in the conference between Prime Minister Churchill and President Roosevelt.

3. Continued Canadian contribution to the war effort in men, weapons and supplies.

Cities in Eastern Canada Are Rocked by Earthquake

By The Canadian Press

A severe earthquake, followed several hours later by two minor shocks, rocked Ontario and Quebec and the northeastern United States early today, damaging two school buildings in Cornwall, Ont., so badly that opening of school was postponed. One person there was injured.

Mayor Aaron Horovitz estimated that damage inflicted to buildings in the St. Lawrence river city would run between $500,000 and $750,000, and said he would appeal to the Federal government for bricklayers to help repair homes whose chimneys were toppled.

School was supposed to open in the Collegiate Institute and Vocational school today, but the build ings were found unsafe for occupancy.

Finns Quit War Against Soviets

By BRUCE MUNN
Exclusive to The Edmonton Bulletin

LONDON, Sept. 5.—(BUP)—A Moscow dispatch said today that diplomatic observers there expected Russian and Finnish representatives to work out a peace pact leaving Finland's 1941 borders intact and giving the Finns a fair chance for early economic recovery.

The Red army ceased hostilities on the Finnish front today, and there was every sign that the Soviets and Finns would have little trouble in achieving a satisfactory settlement, Helsinki announced yesterday that Finland was giving up the Axis alliance and the fight against Russia.

Moscow reported that a Finnish peace commission was expected soon. A British United Press dispatch from the Soviet capital said the Soviet armistice terms were expected to be "surprisingly mild."

CAN AFFORD GENEROSITY

"With Germany on the verge of defeat and the security of Leningrad and Soviet Karelia established, the Kremlin can easily afford magnanimity toward Finland," the dispatch said.

"Should the anticipations of unburdensome peace terms for Finland materialize, it will prove the brief culmination that the cornerstone of Soviet policy in the Baltic area has been security and stability."

The Russian supreme command ordered the halt of military operations against Finland effective at 8 a.m. today, in view of the Finns' acceptance of preliminary conditions to an armistice offered by the Soviet government.

The Finns ceased firing at 8 a.m. yesterday.

Allies Arrive In Luxembourg

LONDON, Sept. 5.—(CP)—Premier Pierre Dupong of Luxembourg said in a broadcast today that Allied troops "have arrived at last" on the soil of the duchy and told his people to get out flags and don their best garb to greet them.

He did not specify at what point the entry was made, but addressed this message to the field armies:

"Welcome to you on Luxembourg soil and thank you a thousand times for everything you have done for Luxembourg. With your blood you are liberating our country from harm. The days and months we were longing for you were frightfully long. Today you have arrived at last."

U.S. Senator Protests Sale Of Air Bases

WASHINGTON, Sept. 5.—(AP)—Senator C. Wayland Brooks (R., Ill.) protested in the United States senate today against the recent sale of air bases in Canada and called upon congress to prohibit further sales of American-built aviation facilities in other countries until American rights to their use have been guaranteed by treaties.

Asserting it is doubtful whether there is a single area where future air rights will be as necessary as those in Canada to the defence of the United States, Senator Brooks declared:

"Yet the war department has already disposed of them by sale without first having our country enter into a treaty which will establish our right to future use of these air bases.

QUOTES COST

"Nine of these bases were constructed by the United States along the Northwest Staging Route at a cost of over $37,000,000. Five of these bases were constructed along the Northeast Ferry Route at a cost of over $34,000,000. Flight strips were constructed throughout Canada at a cost of over $6,000,000.

"Already, before the war has been won, our war department has sold all of these bases and flight strips at a price of almost $14,000,000 less than the cost to us."

In other countries throughout the world where air bases have been built, no provision has been made for their use by the United States, Senator Brooks said, "for any purpose," beyond six months after the close of war.

He said there was eloquent proof that "the British Empire is moving with great speed than we are in this all-important question."

ing the great port to onrushing British forces.

SOME SLOWDOWN

While skimpy information at supreme headquarters last today suggested the possibility of a slowdown to some extent from the sensational pace maintained by the Allied armies in carrying the war to Germany's door-step, Robert C. Richards, British United Press correspondent with the American 3rd Army, said a vanguard came to grips with the Germans in the village of Pont-Mousson, astride the Moselle roughly midway between Metz and Nancy.

In the first word from the Third Army front in several days, Richards said the Americans held part of Pont-a-Mousson on the west bank of the river, beyond which the Germans had retreated after a brisk skirmish and the demolition of the bridges across the 80-foot stream.

(An unconfirmed report published in London said that American tanks had reached the French city of Strasbourg on the German border and that fighting was in progress on enemy soil around Saarbrucken.)

Most of Belgium was in the hands of the British and their American 1st Army comrades driving eastward through the Meuse Valley, and the speed of the Allied offensive indicated that the battle of the Netherlands would be over as swiftly as in 1940 when the German blanket conquered the country in five days.

CANADIANS ADVANCE

Lt. Gen. H. D. G. Crerar's Canadian 1st Army troops continued their swift advance up the channel coast north of the Somme, and observers on the British side of the Dover Straits said the thunder of cannonading in the Boulogne area was clearly audible this morning.

Last official reports said the Canadians had reached Etaples, about 13 miles south of Boulogne, Montreuil, 9½ miles southeast of Etaples, and Hesdin, 13 miles southeast of Montreuil.

German demolition squads were believed blowing up port installations at Boulogne and Calais, and London morning newspapers said great fires were raging in Dunkirk as the Nazis prepared to quit the robot coast. The by-passed German garrison in Le Havre, however, was still holding out determinedly after rejecting a Canadian ultimatum to surrender.

RECORD DRIVE

The British 2nd Army's mass dash from the Seine river bridgehead, 25 miles in six days, is described by military commentators as unprecedented in war, the performance of the supply organization equalling the extraordinary exploits of the operational forces. At no time in the sweep of Lt. Gen. Sir Miles C. Dempsey's armored and motorized infantry columns was there any lack of fuel, ammunition or food, correspondents with the advancing troops said.

On August 30, the British broke out from the bridgeheads across the Seine and drove 65 miles to take Amiens. On September 1 Dempsey's forces poured into Arras and by September 3 had liberated Brussels and yesterday freed Antwerp.

These remarkable strides, unequalled in this or any other war, total 210 miles as the crow flies but the actual distance travelled by road is longer.

POINTED AT GERMANY

During this brief period an entire army, including many thousands of men, thousands of vehicles and hundreds of tanks were moved in strength from the Seine across Belgium to the border of Holland and today were pointed toward Germany itself.

The drive into Antwerp at the Scheldt river estuary closed the last avenue of escape for the cornered German divisions holding out in the vicinity of the French channel ports of Le Havre, Boulogne, Calais and Dunkerque.

Official spokesmen admitted that the terrain between the north bank of the Somme and Antwerp was only loosely held at many points and some of the 100,000 hemmed-in Germans could probably break through. The pocketed Nazis were known to have lost most of their armor and transport, however, and it was believed that the great majority almost certainly faced death or capture.

24-MILE DASH

British troops stormed into Antwerp yesterday after a 24-mile dash north from Brussels and by evening had cleared isolated Nazi rear guards from the dock area and were driving on across the Dutch frontier.

Antwerp was the first big modern port taken by the western invasion armies since the capture of Cherbourg, and first reports indicated its port area was taken intact.

Unconfirmed reports said [illegible] Kingdom troops captured Waterloo, nine miles south of Brussels, where the Duke of Wellington smashed Napoleon's armies in 1815.

OCCUPY BREDA

Advanced columns pushed seven miles over the border to occupy Breda and were reported nestling across flat, almost undefendable terrain toward Eindhoven, 22 miles to the east-southeast, and the Nazi outflanked Rotterdam, 27 miles north-northwest of Breda.

Louvain, 13 miles east of Brussels, Mechelen, 12 miles north of the capital, and Aiost, 13 miles to the northwest, also were taken.

The French industrial city of Lille, by-passed in the first rush of the British drive into Belgium, also was taken.

Headquarters had no comment on the reports that Lt. Gen. George S. Patton's American 3rd Army columns, which have been operating under a security "blackout" for days, had invaded Luxembourg and possibly Germany itself.

APPROACH NANCY

Latest official information put the Americans between Verdun and Metz and approaching Nancy at the southern end of their line.

Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower hinted strongly that operations were in progress inside Luxembourg or were about to begin there, announcing late yesterday that the liberation of that country and Belgium was under way and that the fight for Netherlands was imminent.

Nazi broadcasts made it clear however, that the greater battle of Germany itself was approaching swiftly, if it had not already begun.

An official Berlin spokesman broadcast an appeal to the German people last night to rise against the Allied invader and to put the torch to everything in the path of Eisenhower's armies.

tic coast from Bologna, important junction in the Po valley, would open the way for a sweep up broad plains into northern Italy. The importance the Germans attack to the coastal town was indicated by the fanatical fury with which their First Parachutist Division, supported by tanks, were resisting the Canadians and Britons.

CANADIAN GAINS

The Canadians, supported by armor, first captured Misano, two and a half miles inland, and then turned west to storm Montegallera, one mile further west. The Germans immediately counter-attacked with fresh infantry and tank units, including the Mark IV and Hornets, lightly-armored self-propelled 88's. The Canadians drove off the counter-attack after knocking out six Mark IVs, three of the Hornets and eight older tanks, but front dispatches said heavy fighting was continuing.

In this fighting, formations of the 26th Panzer division appeared for the first time in a long period, and official Allied sources attributed this strong German screen to an attempt to gain time to transfer troops from the central sector and to regroup the infantry units badly mauled in the Canadian thrusts to seize the bridgehead north of the Conca.

While the Canadians held against the German counter attack, United Kingdom units in the western half of the bridgehead advanced with the aid of Churchill tanks and captured San Clemente, 2,000 yards beyond the Conca river, and advanced another two miles to within 1,000 yards of the village of Corsiano.

4. Possible date of a dominion general election.

It also is expected the ministers will discuss the mutual aid Canada continues to give her Allies and the United Nations Relief and Rehabilitation Administration through which the restoration of war-shattered nations is directed.

A UNRRA meeting opens in Montreal Sept. 15, with representatives of 44 United Nations present.

When Mr. Churchill and Mr. Roosevelt met in Quebec last year Mr. King played an important part in their deliberations, if another meeting is held in the same city, as forecast in London dispatches, the Canadian prime minister probably will have a similar role, said Ottawa authorities.

The United Kingdom and the United States leaders are expected to turn at least part of their conference to study of ways and means of hastening victory over Japan and designating spheres of action.

Canada has a vital interest in bringing quick and conclusive victory in the Pacific and due consideration has been given the contribution the Dominion can make, although strategic plans have not yet been completely transformed into action and may not be until the war is over in Europe.

Officials however, agree that Canadian soldiers, sailors and airmen will do their share in the Far East just as they have done in Europe.

were jamming roads leading to the interior of the Reich, dispatches said.

Reaching Le Villars, only two miles south of the Saone river town of Tournus, the French were fast approaching within striking distance of Dijon, last major rail and highway centre between the southern Allied forces and those to the north.

American forces probed northward from Montereau and reached points less than 120 miles from the invasion armies in the north.

The French sent a spearhead northwest from Villefranche, where they captured 2,400 prisoners, to the edge of St. Bonnet de Bruyeres, 17 miles due west of Macon.

A communique said the French and American forces, driving north along both banks of the Saone, were meeting only "ineffectual resistance," the Germans apparently having withdrawn their main forces in hasty retreat up the valley.

Macon, a wine centre with a population of about 16,000 is 13 miles west of Mageval, where the Americans continued their advance northward after beating back a stiff German counter-attack.

Headquarters announced that the bag of prisoners in southern France now totalled more than 65,000.

CUT ESCAPE ROUTES

Captured German troops, virtually left to their own resources to reach the Reich, mounted by the hundreds as the Americans and French cut the escape routes north and northeast of Lyon.

The fat western arm of the French forces, which reached St. Bonnet de Bruyeres, was reported unable to maintain contact with the fleeing Germans.

East of the Saone, the Americans were meeting only slight delaying resistance and continued the steady drive north from Montereau, although the exact extent of their advance was not disclosed.

With the last enemy resistance cleared in Lyon, it was announced that it was announced that some reconstruction work had begun, particularly temporary repairs to bridges the Germans destroyed.

925,963 British Casualties During Five Years of War

LONDON, Sept. 5.—(CP)—Casualties of all ranks of the British Empire forces during the first five years of the war total at least 925,963, it was announced officially Saturday night. They cover the period up to July 31 but some are up to mid-August.

The total includes: killed, including died of wounds or injuries, 242,995; missing, 80,603; wounded 311,300; prisoners of war and internees, 290,865.

This compared with a total of 1,989,919 Empire deaths and 2,400,388 wounded in the four years and three months of the First Great War.

(Canadian casualties in this war up to June 30 totalled 46,394 compared with total First Great War casualties of 190,092. Canadian casualties in this war included: dead, 18,821; missing, 5,311; prisoners, 5,365; wounded, 16,897.

In addition to announcement listed civilian air raid casualties totalling 132,092 (56,195 killed or missing believed killed and 75,897 injured and detained in hospital) and merchant seamen casualties totalling 32,573 (dead, including deaths presumed, among ships, 29,381; internees, 4,192.)

Soviet Russia Declares War On Bulgarians

inevitable, the Bulgars have refused to follow Finland and Romania and join the anti-German coalition.

AIDS NAZIS FIGHT

The Soviets charged that the so-called neutrality of the Bulgarians included giving help to the Germans which the Russian government regards as participation in the war against Russia.

Molotov's note to the Bulgarian minister, Ivan Stamenov, delivered as the Red Army massed on Bulgaria's border, said:

"For more than three years Bulgaria in wholly aided Germany in the war, against the USSR. The Soviet government took into consideration that the small country was not in position to resist the powerful armed forces of Germany at a time when Germany held almost the whole of Europe. The Soviet government put up with this situation.

"The Soviet government even tolerated the fact that Bulgarian governing circles helped the Germans evacuate the Crimea and save remnants of the defeated German forces in south Russia."

BRUSHES ASIDE PROTESTS

Bulgaria's protestation of neutrality, said that "Soviet Russia is forthwith in a state of war against Bulgaria."

The German events this year hauled Bulgaria out of a position of impotence, Molotov said, and set the stage for her to shift into the Allied camp. But Bulgaria refused to make the commitment, clinging to a dubious neutrality while striving to avert war with Russia.

Bowing to powerful Red armies massed along the Bulgarian-Rumanian frontier, Premier Constantin Muraviev broadcast a proclamation to the Bulgarian people announcing that his government had repudiated the Axis tri-partite and anti-comintern pacts and was ready to make peace with the Allies.

Muraviev, a veteran Peasant Party leader who formed a new cabinet last Saturday night to replace that of ex-Premier Ivan Bagrianov, proclaimed that any German troops attempting to escape into Bulgaria would be disarmed.

"NOT SATISFACTORY"

Radio Moscow re-broadcast Muraviev's declaration and followed it almost immediately with a semi-official statement from the Soviet Tass news agency denouncing the Bulgarian stand as unsatisfactory.

Bulgaria's only hope, Tass said, is not neutrality but collaboration with the Allies against Germany.

Tass said bluntly that the new Bulgarian government was "incapable of abandoning neutrality and joining the anti-German coalition.

Muraviev, apparently still struggling to avert a declaration of war against the Reich, said only that his government would break diplomatic relations with Germany if the Nazis attempted to prevent the execution of his new measures.

Thrown Off Wagon: Farmer Is Killed

Said to have been thrown from the layrack when his team of horses bolted on his farm on Saturday evening, Antoni Kornalovich, Stettler district farmer, was killed instantly, according to RCMP here.

Kornalovich, believed to be unmarried, was Polish by birth and lived about 20 miles south of Stettler. A brother also farmed in the same district.

After examination by a coroner and investigation by police, it was decided no inquest was necessary.

More Seed Grain Export Indicated

According to Nelson Young, of Ottawa, seed administrator for the Dominion department of agriculture, an increased production of registered seed grain for export is indicated. He arrived in the city Tuesday.

He is accompanied by Fred Pecring, manager of the seed export office for the department.

Mr. Young will have discussions with growers concerning methods of handling seed and prices which the special products board will pay for export seeds.

Main market for the seed surplus has been in the United States, but it is understood that a large order has been received for overseas delivery.

Entire Front Threatened

Full-Scale Russian Offensive Aims at East Prussia Frontier

By HENRY SHAPIRO
Exclusive to The Edmonton Bulletin

MOSCOW, Sept. 5.—(BUP)—Powerful drive by Red Army forces drove to within 22 miles of East Prussia's southern frontier today in a full-scale offensive that breached the heavily-fortified Narew River line and threatened to split the entire Nazi front covering both Warsaw and the eastern-most province of Germany.

Marshal Konstantin K. Rokossovsky's 1st White Russian Army was a grips with the major part of the German army's northern armored forces.

The threat to East Prussia was expected to draw off a considerable part of the German armor from Warsaw and produce important repercussions in the battle.

One of the greatest tank battles of the war has been fought to a standstill on the northeastern approaches to Warsaw during the past few weeks. The Germans massed great armored strength there in a determined effort to hold the city, and losses on both sides are described here as "very heavy."

Zakharov's new offensive poised a serious flanking threat to the German armies in East Prussia. Gen. Ivan D. Chernikhovsky's 3rd White Russian Army was massed along the ILithuanian-East Prussian frontier in great force and was believed ready to strike if Zakharov's troops continue to make headway from the south.

ROMANIAN FRONT

On the Romanian front, the 2nd Ukrainian Army, supported by strong Romanian units, swept 47 miles northward from their junction with Gen. Rodion Malinovsky's 2nd Ukrainian Army which is driving on Bucharest to within 124 miles of Yugoslavia.

Col.-Gen. Georgi Zakharov's 2nd White Russian Army opened the new offensive against East Prussia along a 35-mile front southwest of Lomza and drove a deep wedge into the German lines.

Zakharov's sudden thrust tied in closely with the overall Soviet strategy for the liberation of Warsaw, positions above Ploesti to capture the big railway and highway junction of Brasov. Capture of the town put the Soviets at the entrance to the Transylvanian plains extending 230 miles northward into Hungary proper.

Sinlai, site of the Romanian royal summer palace 21 miles south of Brasov, also was captured in the Red Army advance.

Ontario, Quebec Cities Are Hit By Earthquake

ings shaking, chimneys toppling, power lines failing for brief periods, but no reports of serious property damage or injuries.

At Cornwall however violent tremors caved in the sides of several buildings, opened wide cracks in others and sent big advertising signs crashing. Physicians treated a number of persons who fainted as the heavy disturbances continued for about a minute, beginning at 12:40 a.m. EDT. They were felt at the same time as far west as London, Ont.

Indication that an offshoot of the tremor occurred in Northern Ontario came from a Canadian National Railways operator at Capreol, 23 miles north of Sudbury, who said that he had felt the shock.

At Toronto some chimneys were toppled from roofs and in many homes dishes crashed off shelves. Power and communication services were not seriously affected but building lights went off in downtown Toronto for about 20 minutes.

Montreal and Ottawa reported a perceptible shake and slight shocks were felt all along the Eastern United States seaboard.

The tremor was recorded in Canada as far as London, Ont., and at Niagara Falls many persons were awakened.

SEVERE 1935 SHOCK

It was nine years since the last severe earthquake struck North America. A severe shock on Nov. 2, 1935, had its centre less than 200 miles from Ottawa and it was believed that last night's shock was of largely similar origin. The 1935 shock caused minor damage throughout Ontario and Quebec and in the adjacent United States areas. An offshoot of this tremor however twisted some railway lines in Quebec around Doucet, 180 miles north of Ottawa.

St. Paul Farmer Dies Suddenly

Henry Willer, farming 11 miles south of St. Paul, was found dead in his field Saturday. He was 37 years old. He complained of not feeling well at breakfast but went as usual to the field to stook grain. Mrs. Willer found him dead by a grain stook. A funeral service was arranged for Monday.

Alphonse Blanchette, 40-year-old dray man, also of St. Paul, narrowly escaped death when the tractor he was driving ran off the edge of the high platform, throwing him from the seat and on to the road. He had a threshing separator at the CNR loading platform on Saturday night.

He was rushed to an Edmonton hospital. His condition is reported as "good."

Nascopie Reaches Far North Post

OTTAWA, Sept. 5—The northern supply ship Nascopie has reached the far northern trading post of Fort Ross, where post officials had to be rescued by air in 1943 after two years in which it was impossible for the supply ship to get to them because of ice, Rescurces Department officials said today.

Fort Ross is 1,000 miles north-northwest from their At the southern end of the long eastern front, Soviet troops stormed and captured Brasov, gateway to the Transylvanian plains leading northward to Hungary, and struck west and southwest of Bucharest to within 124 miles of Yugoslavia.

fire until you absolutely must. The later you begin using it, the longer your fuel will last. And there are many cold months ahead!

USE YOUR FIREPLACE

to take the chill off the house—but, when not in use, be sure the fireplace damper is closed, to avoid heat escaping up the chimney.

WEAR WARMER CLOTHING

Sweater, or other warm wrap, morning and evening, will often supply the necessary warmth on chilly days—and save coal.

THERE IS TIME STILL TO MAKE COLD-REPELLING REPAIRS

If your storm windows and doors are not already up, put them up now.

Caulk Window and Door Frames—For small cost you can save fuel by caulking the space between brick-work and the window or door frame. Many hardware stores rent caulking guns.

Seal Chimney Leaks—Seal or caulk all leaks in the heating system and the smoke pipe and chimney. Be sure the chimney is tight where it connects with the stove pipe. A little stove cement will do the trick.

Repair Insulation—Insulation on hot water tanks, heating pipes and boiler should be repaired to prevent heat loss in basement.

Weatherstrip Doors and Windows—If your windows open too easily, use weatherstripping. Paper, rags, or cheap cotton batting can be used if regular weatherstripping is not available.

Hitler's Three Judges

By Emil Ludwig

dialect. It was not the efficient spirit of Berlin that attracted him. Personally he always preferred Bavaria and has never given up his residence there. Even politically he could easily have managed his career from Munich. The only thing that drew him to Berlin was the Prussian General Staff.

As the small orator was dreaming of becoming the successor of the German Kaiser, he would have to have a war and victory — he would have to have revenge. This wish was shared by all Germans, but the war chariot of Bavaria had no starter and no gasoline. For the last two hundred years, the war machine has been kept ready in one place only: Berlin.

HOW GENERALS USED HITLER

In the new "republican" Reichswehr that was being organized in Berlin, Hitler met the officers of the old Imperial Army. Their generals were looking for a leader. They might have sought and found a Prussian prince without meeting any opposition; for even the Socialists were only nominally republicans. There was no lack of monarchists in Germany, but there was no monarch. The sons and cousins of the runaway princes were no good. The generals were in need of a man of the people as a leader.

In Hitler, the first popular orator the German had produced in centuries, they found an announcer for the beginning of their show. They placed him in front of their ticket office like a circus clown, to attract the public to come to the show.

But they despised him, first for being a proletarian; second, an enlisted man; third, an Austrian. Because they despised him, they overlooked his dynamic, perhaps even magnetic qualities. Here the tragedy begins.

Even after he had become Chancellor, the Junkers and generals called him "the drummer" and thought they could fire him whenever it pleased them. But when Hitler had one of their class murdered, they smelled the danger. In those days, a unanimous demand of the generals to withdraw from Hitler might have ruined his career.

The critical day for both was the one on which old President Hindenburg died, August 2nd, 1934. But Hitler had already aroused so much enthusiasm in all classes of the German people, he had through his speeches done so much to strengthen the spirit of revenge and the will to prepare for a new war, that the generals dared not repulse the man whose face, figure, dress and speech they ridiculed. They looked on him as the man capable of kneading the soft mass of the people.

MARRIAGE OF HATE

The day after Hindenburg's death, Hitler achieved his master stroke: he had the Army take their oath on his person, which the soldiers did only at the order of the generals.

These sons of the oldest families, who for two hundred years had reigned in Prussia and for at least eighty years had governed Germany—the highest aristocracy, who looked down on commoners—stood up and took their oath on this proletarian who had as yet done nothing but give great promises.

From that day, the generals as a class began to hate this man with the feelings that caged lions have for their tamer, grinding their teeth and growling at him as soon as he turns his back—and yet hiding their claws when he turns round to shout at them. From year to year, the more his following among the people grew, the more the generals hated him for overshadowing them, but they could neither depose nor kill him, for he was doing their work, preparing for future world domination.

HITLER'S CONTEMPT

Hitler's contempt for the generals was quite as great. As it is not natural that a proletarian, grown up in the adversity of poverty and failure, should compare his fanatical will to succeed with the nonchalant ease of these barons and counts' sons who had inherited the position he had climbed up to? It was a marriage of hate between Hitler and the generals: neither could do without the other partner.

This hate exploded in the jealousy and squabbles between the Nazi leaders, who were all commoners, and the imperial generals of the aristocracy. Hitler showed great ability in keeping the two sides apart and in making deals with both: the lion tamer throws pieces of meat to each of the lions when they begin to growl at one another.

If Hitler had followed the Russian example and killed all old generals when he came to power, he would have completed his dream of a people's revolution. But knowing the Germans, he did not dare to kill the generals—and tomorrow he must perish through them.

Stalin, in 1919-20, was himself an army leader. Trotsky and Lenin both became strategists, though they were all civilians. But in Prussia, the art of war-making was confined to a single class that the revolution had left in power. To be sure, there were some talented Nazis who later became army leaders, but the German people would follow the Australian proletarian into war only if he was backed by the Prussian General Staff, just as a young American industrialist would be given big business only if he could prove that Morgan was financing him.

JUNKERS' VENGEANCE

This marriage of hate continued as long as success was with them; as long as the conquered countries seemed manageable and produced materials that both parties needed. But the recent trials of the leaders in the assassination plot showed that, already in 1943, the feeling of hatred had produced plans to murder the Fuehrer.

Napoleon, for seventeen years, lived a soldier's life with the sons of commoners and peasants who rose with him and whom he later made dukes and princes. As he always remained the greatest strategist, he was adored by his generals. The classes who hated him he drove out of France, or he made them impotent lookers-on. He was defeated by the Allies' superior forces, entirely from without.

WILL BE LIQUIDATED

Hitler will be liquidated—as I have predicted since 1940—by his enemies from within, before his outer enemies will be able to take him. Eisenhower and Stalin will soon have taken the German armies, but not their Fuehrer.

Hitler will fall—according to the law of ancient tragedy—by the hands of those whom he humiliated and who will make him pay for their weakness and stupidity. The Junkers have been waiting ten years for "the Day" to tear their tamer to pieces.

This act of vengeance is now imminent: the Junkers would not have forgiven Hitler the hanging of noble generals even if he had led them to London. The rope that hung Field Marshal von Witzleben is ready for Hitler in the hands of the field marshal's comrades.

Man Arrested After Finding Woman's Body

101 street, slightly more than 24 hours after the body of the young woman had been discovered.

CARRIED ON PROBE

Instrumental in the arrest, following investigations which lasted throughout Sunday and until 2:30 p.m. Monday, were Detective-Inspector H. B. Petheram, Detective-Sergeant Murdo Munro and Detective Alex Stevenson.

The body was found by two 15-year-old boys who gave their names as Lawrence Steele, 10036 92 street, and James Purvis, 10035 94 street. They were searching for empty bottles in the dumping grounds when they came across the body.

Rushing to the Alberta Motor Boat Company, Limited, they told J. W. Weir, manager, of their discovery. Mr. Weir immediately notified police, who, hurrying to the scene, found the body lying in some bushes not far from the boathouse, north and east of the low level bridge.

Constable J. B. Arial, the first officer to arrive, found the woman's body to be fully clothed, lying face upward.

Almost immediately, the three detectives arrived. Their investigations showed that there were no apparent signs of violence.

CALL CORONER

Dr. F. A. Kerr, coroner, was called and after examining the body, ordered its removal to the Andrews-McLaughlin funeral home, where a post-mortem was held.

An authoritative source stated that the girl's death was the result of suffocation, although the findings of the post-mortem have not been disclosed.

It was learned that Charlotte Hunter came to Edmonton from Good Fish Lake about nine months ago and taken a job in the Royal Palace cafe, 10331 101 street.

She registered at a rooming house operated by Joseph Kolesnik, 10343 98 street, on July 24 last. She had remained there for only a few days, the proprietor said.

She had, however, returned to sleep each night of the last week, from Tuesday to Friday.

Police stated the dead woman had on her person a registration certificate and a small amount of money. She had been employed for some hours.

Grace Favell, said to be another friend from Good Fish Lake, was picked up by officers on 98 street, shortly before Leveillie was arrested.

SEVEN CHILDREN

Daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Cleophas Hunter of the Good Fish Lake area, where her father is employed as a sawyer, Charlotte was one of a family of seven children. She has three sisters and three brothers.

According to friends of the family, Charlotte had "gone out on Saturday for the first time." Her character was of the best, and her family highly respected, it was stated. She was the second eldest child of the family.

An inquest will be held, and it was probable the body would be claimed and sent to Good Fish Lake for burial, police said.

Trains Delayed

Both Canadian Pacific Railway and Canadian National Railways trains were delayed several hours.

Anglo-Hellenic Association Is In Convention Here

Delegates to the annual convention of the prairie provinces' district of "Ahepa," the Anglo-Hellenic Education Progressive Association, arrived in Edmonton at the week-end. Majority of representatives are from Winnipeg and Brandon.

The sessions, which are being held from 2 to 5 p.m. in the IOOF hall on 103 street, were opened Monday afternoon by George Spilios, governor of the district, and will conclude Wednesday afternoon.

Mr. Spilios welcomed the delegates and presented his report. Tuesday and Wednesday afternoons the convention was scheduled to hear committee reports on fraternal affairs, and it is expected a new governor and secretary will be elected.

NAME CHAIRMAN

Delegates elected Tim Bass to act as chairman of the convention.

The international Greek organization, formed for the purpose of assisting Greek immigrants and encouraging them to become good citizens of Canada or the United States, originated the Greek Rehabilitation Fund. Through this, aid was sent to people in their homeland through the International Red Cross. The association also backed the Greek War Relief Fund.

In 1943 the convention was not held owing to wartime conditions and this year the usual ceremonies and entertainments have been cancelled.

N. Nicholson is president of the Edmonton lodge.

Pakan Soldier Dies of Wounds

Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Mitchell of Pakan have received word that their son, Hm. Gordon L. A. Mitchell, Special Company of the Regina Rifle Regiment, died of wounds received Aug. 17 in Normandy. He enlisted with the Edmonton Fusiliers in February, 1941, and went overseas in May, 1942. His regiment was one of the first to reach its objective on "D" Day. Besides his parents he leaves two brothers, LAC Lloyd Mitchell, now at St. Thomas, Ont., and Kenneth Mitchell at Pincher Creek; also two sisters, LAW. Ilene Mitchell of Hagersville, Ont., and Mrs. J. Shannon, Vancouver, B.C.

Churches Observe Day For Prayers

Edmonton churches were largely attended Sunday as citizens observed a day of prayer called for by His Majesty King George to mark the fifth anniversary of Britain's declaration of war on Germany.

Special services were held in churches across the Dominion and throughout the Empire, as ministers called upon their congregations to rededicate themselves in the cause of victory. Prayers of intercession for Allied fighting forces were offered and guidance asked for the formation of a better world and lasting peace.

Not "Standing Still"

British Troops Sweeping Right Through Belgium

By CHARLES BRUCE

LONDON, Sept. 5.—(CP)—British troops have thrust from the Seine to Brussels in four days. Last night they were not "standing"—as the military phrase is—deep in Belgium. They were sweeping through it.

With dash and flair Lt.-Gen. Dempsey's 2nd Army struck through to the heart of the low countries while Lt.-Gen. Crerar's mixed 1st Canadian Army overran the flying bomb coast and swarmed across the Somme.

Apart from the spectacular and material immensity of these last few days, they have probably taken a byproduct result that will prove a source of satisfaction to both British and American elements of the Allied high command.

SHOULD END GOSSIP

They should end at last the "Monday morning quarterbacks" gossip about Gen. Montgomery's "slowness" around Caen—gossip that gained impetus through Lt.-Gen. Patton's brilliant dash with the American 3rd Army, and the fact that Gen. Montgomery and Lt.-Gen. Bradley, commanding the 12th American Army group, were placed on an equal footing—when the plan called for it.

Gen. Eisenhower tried to make the situation clear last Thursday when he said every foot gained around the Caen hinge was worth 10 miles elsewhere and gently chided news writers, saying they should have been bragging about the Caen battle and not criticizing.

All through the long weeks of bloody fighting around Caen, the left of the British and Canadian armies was unspectacular and never made clear. Every foot gained was keeping a hinge clear for a gate to swing—the Normandy gate that opened the way to the Allied victory in France. The enemy had staked his chances on jamming the hinge with armor. For weeks the British fought to keep the hinge clear for the American gate to swing through central France.

ARMOR DESTROYED

They succeeded. Now with the German armor destroyed and the channel front not only dispersed but disintegrated, they have picked their end of the gate right off the hinge and together with the American armies are pushing the whole thing as a shield into the heart of the dissolving opposition in the German-occupied lands.

Any earlier disclosure of the plan would have been information of some value to the enemy. Even now that the plan is general knowledge it is a happy thing that the British army has been given a chance to carry the ball and show it has no superiors on either side of the Rhine in fluid warfare.

Notre Dame's football team under the great Knute Rockne had "seven mules" and "four horsemen" but no one remembers the mules. In Western Europe now the whole Allied team are horsemen—and galloping.

City Residents Spend Holiday In Many Ways

While Allied armies thundered relentlessly toward the heart of Adolf Hitler's Germany, Edmonton's fifth wartime Labor Day was spent in many ways.

It was a different holiday weekend from most in the year, starting with a day of prayer on Sunday, fifth anniversary of Britain's declaration of war on Germany. City churches were crowded for the occasion, worshippers in their hundreds uniting in prayer for mighty victories over foes of the Four Freedoms.

Labor Day itself was observed by most places of business in the city as a general holiday, skeleton staffs only being maintained for emergency calls. Most war plants closed gates for the day, allowing employees to enjoy labor's traditional "high day."

American installations in Edmonton and vicinity continued operations as usual.

PICNICS FOR MANY

Picnics, trips to nearby lakes and parks, or the day spent quietly at home formed the manner in which more holidaying residents passed Monday. Weather was perfect for a last trip to the cottage at the lake to lock up for the winter or a "bike" trip down the highway.

Many amateur gardeners harvested last-minute crops for home canning operations, others getting in a little spade work before the ground is hardened under soon-to-come assaults of frost.

Sportsmen as usual had their choice of activity, tennis, bowling, golf, baseball, football, even swimming for hardy enthusiasts. Those bent on quiet recreation could be seen on rambles in the country-side, enjoying nature's early autumn color scheme in which the green of spring and summer is fading into yellow and scarlet of fall, wherever the eye may be cast.

More Recruiting Edmonton Centre

Applications for enlistment in the Canadian Active Army at the Edmonton recruiting centre during August show an increase over the number received during the same period last year with a higher percentage of applicants having a high school education.

In August, 1943 total of 85 applications were received, and 48 per cent of the men had Grade 9 educational standing. During the same month this year 119 applications were received and 56 per cent had high school education.

CWAC recruiting also showed a marked increase this year when 41 applications were received during August as compared with 22 during the same period last year.

Stores Will Aid War Stamp Drive

The departmental stores of Edmonton will aid the War Savings stamp drive by featuring window displays during the month of September.

The Hudson's Bay company will have a display along with pictures of the invasion of Normandy, during the current week. The T. Eaton Company (Western) Limited will have a display Sept. 11 to 16. Johnstone Walker Limited during the week Sept. 18 to 23, and C. Woodward Limited Sept. 25 to 30.

CANADA'S TRANSPORT PIONEERS BUILDED WELL

Canada's wartime transportation job has been phenomenal. Look at the record.

In 1943, as against 1939, car loadings reached 135 million tons—up 58.82%; transit passengers totalled 1,221 million, up 89.59%; busses carried 52 million, an increase of 36.53%; 302,000 people, or 94.83% more, travelled by air.

These figures are the more impressive when the difficulties of wartime operation are recalled. Management and personnel have had to solve innumerable problems, to handle greatly increased traffic with facilities that would ordinarily have been judged inadequate to the task.

Canada's transport pioneers — of rail, highway, water, and air—made these achievements possible. These men of vision and enterprise built, through trackless wilderness, the rails that opened Canada for Canadians. They developed the shipping on Canada's important waterways. They pioneered the Northern Skyways to create the greatest air freight traffic in the world. Thus the impelling urge of free competition built — and built well — the solid foundation of the transportation network on which wartime Canada has moved so much, so fast.

This Rich Country

Mr. G. G. McGeer M.P., spoke the truth to the Vancouver board of trade when he said no nation of 12,000,000 people "have more to do, or more to do it with, than the lucky people who live in the Dominion of Canada."

That is a fact which should be firmly fixed in the minds of people in all parts of this singularly favored country, and impressed persistently upon the young. We have all that it takes in the way of materials and location to make themselves with the highest standard of living in the world. The rest is up to ourselves. If we do not make use of our opportunities, the fault will lie with us, and one way or another we shall pay the penalty for shiftlessness and neglect.

It is still true, in temporal affairs as in the things of the spirit, that "God helps those who help themselves." Nature has packed our country with resources, and planted it in short lines of communication with the most populous, progressive and wealthy regions on earth. Industry and enterprise are all we need to add to these natural advantages. And the rewards are incalculable.

Back To Dieppe

It was not of course just by accident that Canadian troops were the ones to capture Dieppe in the sweep along the Channel coast last week. That privilege was undoubtedly accorded them in memory of the unsuccessful assault made on the place two years ago. It was appropriate that the Second Division headed the march-in, for that division had participated in the abortive attack, and many of the men who thus entered the town in triumph had fought in the 1918 battles in the Amiens district in August of 1942.

The deep satisfaction felt by these men and their comrades in being first into Dieppe can be appreciated, and is shared by their kinsmen at home. Dieppe has been a painful memory to the people of Canada. The word will carry a changed significance in future. It is now the symbol of victory achieved where a costly failure had once been made.

Dieppe fell to the Canadians without a fight. The Germans fled before their approach from the rear. This perhaps discloses the reason" which the high command learned from the battle of two years ago—that enemy-fortified coastal positions must be outflanked and taken in reverse.

All Share the Credit

Thanks are due to General Eisenhower for having squelched the somewhat prevalent idea that the British and Canadian forces played only a minor role in the Battle of France. This impression was perhaps natural because of the splendid and much more spectacular part taken by American troops. But the comparison was unjust, as the Commander-in-Chief pointed out in emphatic language.

The British and Canadians, he said, had to break the strongest line of defence the enemy had in France — in the Caen area. Von Kluge threw against them, as he was bound to do, everything he had, picked troops, panzer divisions, massed artillery. Had they given way the Allied beach-head position would have been rolled up. Had they not smashed the Nazi armored power, General Patton could not have made his amazing drive clear across the country from Brittany to the eastern border, cutting the whole net-work of the German defence system and making the coastal zone untenable.

The issue of France was won by finely co-ordinated action of all the elements comprising the invasion army. The right men were assigned to the several jobs that had to be done, as the outcome so plainly shows. The war has given no comparable example of adroitly planned and cleverly executed team-play. It is an Allied victory in the full sense of the term. There is no room for partiality in apportioning the credit.

V

September

September in western Canada will be a fateful month. There is an enormous crop to be harvested and threshed in the prairie region, and only favorable weather will make it possible to do the job. This of course is of direct consequence to western farmers and business interests. But it is also a matter of vital concern to people they may not know it — to people in Europe.

When the Allied forces entered Paris they at once instituted a truck service to convey food from the ports into that city. It is estimated that a minimum of 75,000 tons per month must be thus imported for many months. This throws light upon the gigantic demand for food that is opening up as the Allied armies advance and liberate cities and territories long subjected to the Nazi policy of systematic exploitation and deliberate underfeeding.

This demand must be met, for humanitarian reasons; and also because liberation would seem a mockery to the suppressed nations if it brought them even less food than their German masters allowed them. The occupied regions have been stripped of food, stock and machinery, and harvest-time there cannot fill the granaries and store-houses for winter. The shortage will have to be made up by imports from overseas, and western Canada is one of the great food-producing areas from which the supplies will have to be drawn.

Last year 500 million bushels of wheat were shipped from the Dominion. That is twenty-five per cent more than the crop of the present year is expected to amount to. Export during the coming winter must be heavier than last, will in fact be limited only by the cargo space available. But wheat is only one item in the list of essential foods. The outlook is that every ton of wheat, meat and dairy products Canada can provide will be needed to avert distress in Europe, as ships can be found to carry the supplies across the Atlantic.

September weather over the prairies is thus not of urgent importance to the people of these provinces alone, but to hunger-stricken people in Europe as well. It is of the utmost importance that everything humanly possible be done to take care of this western crop of grain and feed —and to turn these to the best account in the production of human food.

Western Canada has done its full share in providing men for our armed forces and in producing military supplies. Given favorable weather the harvest and threshing season it can make a corresponding contribution to the task of meeting the food requirements of Europe's half-starved millions.

A Glasgow paper says: "Returning prisoners of war report that the German guards always gloatingly read to them all reports of strikes in British ship-yards, ports and munitions works, and that these have a most damping effect on prisoners." That is something worth thinking about, in Canada and every other Allied country.

News that an Allied spearhead force had captured Verdun was the appropriate but unwelcome present sent to Hitler on the 25th anniversary of the day he launched his drive for world power—a drive that was to make Germany master of Europe by Christmas of 1939! What his disillusioned subjects must be asking themselves now is—Who will be master of Germany at Christmas of 1944?

The district of Springbank, in southern Alberta, is moving to secure incorporation as an irrigation municipality.

A proposition is on foot to turn the waters of the Bow River onto a plateau lying between Medicine Hat and Gleichen, to so irrigate it that it will grow crops. A million acres would thus be turned into good farming land. J. L. Douple of the C.P.R. land department has taken all the necessary levels.

Warden Clarke, whose many experiences in northern solitudes entertainingly told of in his several books have made him famous on two continents, left Victoria by the steamer City of Topeka last week, bound for Wrangel. He has gone for a six months hunting and trapping trip along the Lizard and Iskoot rivers.

The amount appropriated by the Dominion Government to carry on boring operations for petroleum at Athabasca Landing was $7,000.

Mining up the river is said to yield from $1.50 to $2 a day.

St. Petersburg: Authorities express themselves as confident that the critical stage of Kuropatkin's retreat is past, and that the world is capable of losing any considerable part of his army to the pursuing Japs. It is announced here that the Russian forces are taking up permanent positions near Mukden, but an Associated Press despatch says the army evacuated Mukden and proceeded north.

London: After a long series of despatches monotonously recording the daily advance of the German forces, London went wild at news from Boulogne announcing a British-French victory twenty-five miles north of Paris, when the Imperial German Guard is said to have been annihilated. One of the biggest battles of the struggle has been raging for days east and northeast of Paris, the German advance having turned from Paris toward the southeast.

Vienna: Wireless messages picked up indicate that the Australian warship Australia is in hot pursuit of the Nurnberg, which left here yesterday.

Are We Prepared for Victory?

Lack of Post-War Policy Will Cripple Our Stand In Germany

By DOROTHY THOMPSON

The nearer we come to Germany, the less we seem concerned with what is happening inside Germany. Our official attitude is that the problem will be solved by purely military means — by occupation. Three armies will march into assigned areas and the area will assign themselves by the movement of our three armies, and the country will be taken over.

At this point the three Allied governments and their armies will face a problem unprecedented in the history of the world. They will enter a country in complete collapse, without a government, an administration that can be used, and — as far as any of us know without a policy regarding what we hope to create in Germany.

Thompson Dorothy

That movement is imminent. When it breaks, the much debated question of whether there are "good" Germans becomes irrelevant. We shall have to find "good" Germans—good, at least, for our purposes. The "goodness" or "badness" of individuals or groups will depend wholly on our aims.

Our avowed immediate purpose is to liquidate Nazism and punish war criminals. That automatically throws out practically the whole administration, central and local.

Behind, however one draws the frontiers of Germany it is an area containing sixty to eighty million people, highly organized, centrally administered, deeply bureaucratized, and living in a narrow space, a fact which in itself demands a high degree of integrated administration. It is industrial, not agricultural, already demoralized by bombings and shifts of population, and containing sixty to eighty million foreign workers. It obviously cannot be administered by Americans, Russians and Britons, without the aid of thousands of Germans. But what Germans?

Normally speaking, the people on whom we could count would be self-appointed. They would be individuals who, in the course of the war and its preceding period, have emerged as opponents of the Nazi regime, and they would be, en masse, those once organized groups who, by all their traditions, and by the record we have, have been anti-Nazi.

Presuming foresight of the situation that is now looming upon us, we would have been in contact with such people, giving them every aid. That they exist has been proved from the type of propaganda the Nazis have set up; otherwise there would not have been so terroristic a control over the home front.

And in the last month we have had proof of it in the plot which implicated high-ranking officers of the general staff, as well as many civilians. Dr. Karl Goerdeler, for instance, was an active plotting Nazi since the early days of the Hitler regime, and his connections were not only with part of the Rechtswehr but with the old social democrats and trades unions. How strong he may have been I do not know. But the conspiracy is related, and could have been strengthened.

There are all sorts of symptoms that anti-Nazis made overtures to the Allied powers and tried to get aid in overthrowing the Nazi regime both before and since the war began. As far as we can see they failed completely, and the plot was discovered and its leaders liquidated by the Gestapo.

In the days of the plot the attitude expressed by inspired American publicists was: we will not be cheated out of our victory; we demand unconditional surrender. But that is not the question. The question is: who is going to surrender? And what will come after the surrender? Actually, the unconditional surrender formula is in the wastepaper basket. Surrender implies authority that can and will surrender. The Nazis will not. The French Fascists have not even surrendered in Paris and Marseilles. They have had to be dislodged house by house. They could only be dislodged by Frenchmen, because we don't know who they are or where they are. It is unlikely that the German Nazis will show less fight than the French Fascists—but what Germans are going to help us?

The Russians have a German group who will help liquidate Nazism. But we have no information as to what there are more pro-Russian Germans than pro-western. The reason is that the Russians are consciously foresaw a situation.

The situation we have met in France is unique, and at least our correspondents. It is a revolutionary situation. But it is an organized revolution, with its partisans across the whole length and breadth of the people with it, and with a personnel to conduct it. It is a Sunday school picnic compared with what we will confront one of these days in Germany. For Germany is not only the most powerful center of the Nazis, but the last stronghold of all the Fascists of Europe. And for whatever policy we pursue—the breaking of the machine, the truncating of Germany, the government of Germany without division —for any choice, we shall have to have assistance.

Are we doing anything to encourage and organize such assistance? Do we know yet what policy we shall seek assistance for? Or are we doing all we can to bring about the encouragement and liquidation of any group that might help us?

Canada's Wartime Export Trade

Drastic Reduction Faces Country When War Is Over

By B. T. RICHARDSON

OTTAWA—A strong not of caution in interpreting Canada's wartime export trade is sounded in an authoritative summary of the export situation by C. D. Blyth, chief of international payments branch, Dominion Bureau of Statistics, just published by the department of trade and commerce. Mr. Blyth points out that a variety of special financial measures, such as mutual aid and repatriation of overseas securities, have been developed to make a high level of exports possible. He analyzed Canadian export trade, which amounted to $3,000,000,000 in 1943, and came to the conclusion that "not more than a quarter of the present total of exports represents normal, established commercial trade."

Canada will face a drastic readjustment of her foreign trade as soon as the war ends.

The post-war question, then, will not only be customers for Canadian goods, but customers who are able to pay for them.

"The new export credit legislation," wrote Mr. Blyth, "is a measure designed to meet some of the financial problems. The solution of others will depend to a large extent upon the general background of post-war trade. The plans for an international currency agreement and an international bank made recently at the Bretton Woods conference point towards the goal of the eventual re-establishment of a multilateral system of world trade. The successful operation of such a system would remove some of the financial obstacles and do much to encourage a large volume of Canadian trade."

Special financial arrangements to make possible a tremendous export trade in the future will lapse after the war. Some of them have lapsed already. Besides mutual aid, Canada has received billions of dollars to the United Kingdom in 1942.

Less widely appreciated is the fact that Canada spent $534,000,000 in overseas expenditures on its armed forces in 1943-44, and this has been an important factor in providing the United Kingdom with Canadian exchange with which to make purchases in Canada. Canada also repatriated Dominion and C.N.R. securities held in the United Kingdom, accumulated a large sterling balance in London until most of it was funded as non-interest loan of $700,000,000 in 1942, and purchased the British government's equity in war plants in Canada in 1943 at a cost of $205,000,000.

These items explain why the United Kingdom has continued to be one of Canada's main customers in time of war.

In his analysis of Canadian export trade, Mr. Blyth finds that most of it falls into the category of special wartime transfer of goods rather than normal commerce. Manufactured products have come to represent a larger proportion of exports than ever before. The production of munitions on a heavy scale in Canada has been for use overseas. These exports have included many components and materials obtained in the United States. "Apart from their foreign exchange implications," wrote Mr. Blyth, "they represent an addition to a considerable part of the value of exports."

But though Canadian exports have included a large percentage of munitions, the trade in commodities which Canada exported before the war has expanded, especially in exports going to the United States and the United Kingdom.

"The wartime character of much of this demand is clearly evident," the review continued. "In the case of food exported to the United Kingdom, for instance, Canada has become a principal supplier of the kinds of food which were formerly obtained elsewhere. . . . Similarly, much of the present level of United States demand for Canadian food and industrial materials is the product of wartime conditions."

Taking export trade figures for 1942, Mr. Blyth reports that $421,500,000 in exports going to non-British countries other than the United States, and $350,000,000 represented commercial trade. Exports to the United States amounted to $1,100,000,000 in 1943, and those of general commercial character amounted to $780,000,000. Mr. Blyth adds that it is not possible to tell how much of this $780,000,000 in 1943 represents normal commercial business, but it is clear that substantial amounts of these commodities are used for war production in the United States." One example of this is wheat purchased in Canada for manufacture of alcohol in the United States. Another is feed grain.

Applying the same analysis to Canadian exports to the United Kingdom, Mr. Blyth reported that, exclusive of munitions and food forwarded under the mutual aid act, commodities exported in 1943 were valued at $608,000,000. But last year's figure was not normal exports. "This group," he wrote, includes a large part of the food exports in 1943 and most of the nonferrous metals, lumber and wood products and other miscellaneous raw materials and textiles. It consequently reflects a large amount of special wartime demand and can be regarded as commercial exports in a very limited sense."

The conclusion of this review is that while Canada's exports in 1943 amounted to $3,000,000,000 in values, civilian commodities represented about half of this amount. Even of these commodities, much of the demand filled by exports from Canada was "temporary and abnormal" war requirements outside of Canada." The normal commercial trade involved in 1943 exports was about 25 per cent of the total.

Company of Shopkeeper Nations

By J. A. PATON, MLA
for Point Grey, B.C.

The world at large knows us, and has dubbed us, as a Nation of Shopkeepers. To be dubbed is to be elected. Dubbing, as everyone knows, is the final act of conferring a knighthood. The world knows that the Shopkeeper Degree often enough to recognize it as our own. Incidentally, there is nothing particularly derogatory in being a shopkeeper. Right now in this time of world trial and tribulation for all of us, the greatest, efficient shopkeeper to feed the needy, and allocate the raw materials of the world to those in most need, which has to do with shopkeeper so why not accept the responsibility allocated to us by the world?

Even at first glance, will seem a far-fetched idea, but one has to get their ideas from somewhere, and why not from the world at large. Better still, why not carry the idea to its ultimate and with the tenets of the Atlantic Charter apply them to the world as a Company of Shopkeeper Nations.

Now the idea is developing.

In Army and Navy Stores in Britain, (or may have another name), is one of the largest cooperatives in the world and its methods are unique and wonderful. In addition to retailing everything from endives to elephants it manufactures much of its own merchandise and operates its own tea plantations.

Here at home we have the Canadian Industries Limited. This too is a cooperative. It operates to the advantage of its stockholders. The Army and Navy stores is a stock company in addition to being a cooperative. Both have shareholders, the difference being that in the case of the Army and Navy the shareholder customers have a service and participation in the difference between cost and selling price, a dividend which is based on their individual purchases.

The point of interest is, they both have very wide business ramifications, and they both work. As a Nation of shopkeepers this should be of interest, because, while we live in the sense, we never have had the game, that it nationally.

Those of us of Anglo-Saxon stock are Empire minded because we inherit an intangible share in the British Empire. Those who come from other lands do not feel this privilege inheritance, though it is true (subject to certain local determinations in minor matters inclusive of the rights of certain Dominions to refuse entry) these rights under the British Ensign carry certain Empire rights.

In this realm the Company of Nations can be spoken of as an Empire partnership, and those of the parent race think of the Empire in that sense.

But, to have an Empire partnership, should not the partnership be carried further than putting our shopkeeping and organizing ability to good use and organize the units of Empire into companies; particularly in respect to the holding of natural resources. As it is now the people of Canada own Canada through their several governing agencies. But now that there is bound to be a great movement of people, should there not be a more specific title given to that ownership right, and those who seek entry into the country be required to earn citizenship by degrees.

Through life we are governed by degrees. We are born and by degrees we grow to womanhood and manhood. We go to school and by degrees we achieve such education as we are able to assimilate and so on through life.

Perhaps the idea of constitutional right of a more precise kind than that which now exists is necessary. Perhaps this is the new order in which the rights of man will have a

Dewey Rewrites the Platform

By BRUCE HUTCHISON

While the Republican party administedly failed at its last convention to lay down a clear or consistent policy in foreign affairs, its candidate, Mr. Dewey, is moving rapidly to repair this damage. From his utterances of the last few weeks it is possible now to see a positive and detailed Republican policy emerging, and it does not much resemble the Chicago platform.

Evidently after long thought and consultation with competent advisers, Mr. Dewey has developed his own platform to include the following main principles:

(1) The United States must enter a new league of nations, which must be truly representative of all peace-loving states and must not be dominated by a few great powers. The Tilan theory of a power-balance, maintained by the Big Three, is suicidal for the world's peace.

(2) The covenant of the new league must be divorced from the immediate post-war settlement. The settlement itself must be enforced by the victors in closest collaboration. "This responsibility cannot be shared with liberated peoples, but it cannot immediately be delegated to a world-wide organization while such organization is yet new and unried."

(3) The maintenance of peace must have force behind it. "Force is essential to any realistic program for the permanent maintenance of peace." But in the long-term solution of international problems, peace and security cannot be left to the sanction of force alone. To leave them exclusively in the hands of a permanent military alliance of four victorious powers would be immoral. It would be a denial of the ideals for which we are fighting. . . . We are fighting for our own freedom and to establish once and for all the rights of people everywhere to live in peace and freedom, safeguarded from the coercion of more powerful nations. . . . We must not sink into the abyss of power politics. We must rise to a new high level of co-operation and joint effort among respected and sovereign nations to work for and to preserve the peace of the world through all the years to come, based on freedom, equality and justice."

(4) Maintenance of future peace means an economic reorganization of the world, and it will be impossible without the removal of trade barriers and the maximum possible movement of goods throughout the world.

This statement from Mr. Dewey is, of course, a direct repudiation of the high-tariff policy enforced by his party throughout the inter-

AUSTRALIAN NEWS LETTER

A colorful contingent has arrived in Australia—Dutch, Creoles, Javanese, Indian and Chinese—and it is known officially as the West Indian Troops of the Royal Netherlands Army.

It is made up of members of the permanent Dutch Army and conscripts from Surinam and Curacao, all volunteers to fight the Jap in the Pacific area. Several escaped from Holland after the German occupation.

All were trained in jungle warfare in the swamps of Dutch Guiana. They wear jungle green and their equipment includes the klewang, a long razor-sharp knife which they prefer to the bayonet.

They could march upon the Venus de Milo. They could burn every book in the world. But I felt nothing toward them but contempt.

Looking at those Germans I was ready to bow in veneration before every Paris cat, to laud sheep and to praise mules. And that insolence to call other nations "submen." What are they? Sub-cattle.

Water

VANCOUVER SUN.

Montreal hasn't the abundance of water which would allow it to waste it in precious fluids. Its daily consumption hit a new record of 174,000,000 gallons.

For a city supposed to be three times as large as Vancouver this quantity looks small. Our own citizens recently set a new mark for a Vancouver in excess of 100,000,000 gallons in one 24-hour period.

Of course, Montrealers don't drink the stuff if they can avoid it. Water to them has absolutely no status as a beverage.

We are established now in bases all around the world. Our aerial lifelines are secure. Mighty machines are on the move in ever-increasing numbers.—Gen. Henry H. Arnold, Air Forces chief.

Edmonton Ace Sets "Six Under" for Calgary Course Record

Henry Martell Wins Alberta Open Crown

New Champ Breaks Par Every Round

CALGARY, Sept. 5.—(CP)—Shooting four sub - par rounds, including a record-breaking 64 Sunday afternoon, Henry Martell of the Edmonton Highlands Club, with his 72-hole total of 268, made a one-man show of the 1944 Alberta open championship golf tournament staged over Calgary Golf and Country Club course Sunday and Monday. Martell had rounds of 68, 64, 67 and 69.

Martell's record round shattered by one stroke the 65 that Freddy Wood of Vancouver established six years ago when he rallied to beat out Stand Leonard in the open here.

When the amazing Martell completed his brilliant performance over a perfectly conditioned course, and in two days of ideal weather, he finished with a lead of 23 strokes over his nearest rivals in the professionals, Pat Fletcher of Edmonton and Ernie Tait of Powell River, B.C. who is now in the army, stationed at Victoria. Fletcher and Tait each had a total of 291. Pete Oiynik of Edmonton and Jim Rose of Regina, two more pros tied for fourth place with 295's, one stroke better than R. C. MacWilliams of Calgary.

FIRST ROUND

During the first round Martell had birdies on the first and thirteenth and with pars on the other sixteen had a count of 68, two under.

In his record breaking second round he birdied the first, second, eighth, ninth, twelfth and eighteenth and playing the other 12 holes in par, his score was 64, six under.

His 67 in the third round included birdies on the second, eleventh and eighteenth.

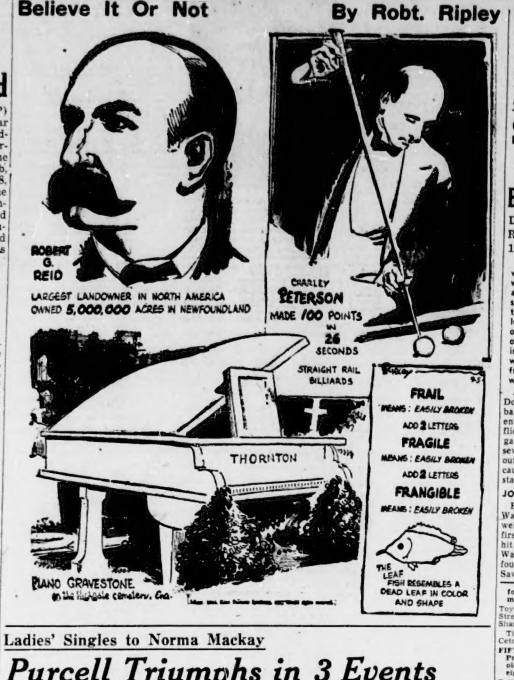

ONLY OVER PAR TWICE

It was not until the fourth hole of the final round that Martell faltered, going one over par for the first time. He birdied the ninth for a 35 at the turn and a 63-hole total of 234. He was one over again on the twelfth but finished with birdies on the 13th and 17th and the others in par figures for a 34 coming in to give him a 69 for the round and a grand total of 268, for the 72 holes.

US Signals Enter Final

Sawyer Pitches Two-Hitter In Shutting Out Dodgers 1-0

BOB SAWYER pitched and batted U.S. Signals into the senior baseball final with Yanks when he shut out the Dodgers 1-0 in the fourth game of their semi-final series at Renfrew Park on Sunday afternoon. Signals won the first 11-4, dropped the second 14-3 and then took the third 9-5.

Sunday's was Sawyer's second win of the series, he having worked in the opener on Aug 26, and it was largely a one-man show. In addition to setting down the hardest hitting club in the league with just a pair of hits—one by Ralph Morgan in the second and another by Len Brockie in the fourth, Sawyer came up with a clutch single in the fifth frame to drive in Bert Culver with the only run of the game.

Aside from the two safe blows, Dodgers managed to get only four balls out of the infield during the entire nine innings. Superstein filed out to Slagle in the sixth, Morgan hoisted one to Schissar in seventh and repeated for the final out of the game, and Johnson was caught out by Wasik in the third stanza.

JOHNSON IN GOOD FORM

But although he lost the decision, Walter Johnson also was pitching well. He blanked Signallers for the first three sessions and the initial hit made off him was Gerry Wasik's, with one down in the fourth. Johnson struck out 11 and Sawyer and Jim Junker were the only opponents he missed getting on strikes at least once.

Signals had two men on bases in the first inning, both reaching there on errors. They threatened again in the third when Schissar walked and Johnson failed to field Culver's attempted sacrifice bunt.

The Dodger pitcher then struck out Hackler, walked Junker purposely and after striking out Nelson, forced Sawyer to hit a roller which Brant took care of third for a forceout.

TWO UP, TWO EARNED

Signallers' run was earned. Culver opened the fifth with a single to centre and Hackler sacrificed, being tossed out Johnson to Morgan. Junker again was passed on orders from the bench and Nelson forced him at second, Stevenson to Shandro. Sawyer, however, slapped a single into left field, sending Culver over with what proved to be the only run of the game.

Junker doubled to start off the seventh, but eventually died on third, Nelson flied to Brockie, Sawyer was thrown wide open and Jim Kelly batting for Byrd was a strikeout victim. Wasik walked, but Slagle also struck out.

Dodgers reached second base three times during the game—Morgan in the second, Brockie in the fourth inning and Stevenson in the seventh.

Alberta Champ

Edmonton's ace shotmaker, Henry Martell blasted par in every round, including a record smashing effort, of the Alberta 72-hole tournament at Calgary over the week-end to become the new provincial open golf champion. Henry recently won the Edmonton amateur title for the 10th time in a row.

Just Three Hits Off Hawkey

All-Stars Trim Yanks 8-2 In Lions Club Exhibition

YANKS couldn't do anything with Morrie Hawkey in the Lions Club charity game at Renfrew Park on Monday night and the All-Stars had little trouble marking up an 8-2 win over the senior league leaders. No attendance figures were announced, but in addition to the advance ticket sale, over 1,100 were sold at the gate.

While the Yanks were operating fairly successfully on Walter Nelson's offering to the extent of 10 hits, Hawkey had the Yanks baffled all the way. Marlowe Robertson accounted for two of the three safeties garnered off the Arrow ace.

The Yank second-sacker slashed out a double to score Gino Valenti with his club's first run in the second frame and he came up with one of two singles in the seventh, Columbus Burchfield securing the other.

Brockie, Welch, Samis and Shandro all found Nelson for a pair of blows. Brockie stole four bases and Welch drove in four runs, one a beautifully executed squeeze with Brockie in the ninth.

ALL STARS SCORE FIRST

A walk to Brockie, an error by Meyers on the throw from short on Superstein's grounder, a stolen base and Welch's flyout to Dorsky sent the All-Stars ahead in the first inning.

Meyers started the second stanza for Yanks by hitting to centre-left and Brockie failed to hang onto the ball after a long run. Valenti forced Meyers, but Robertson later on and came home on Roberston's double.

Hits by Dombrowski and Samis, errors by Meyers, Burchfield and Crumly and stolen bases by Brockie and Superstein netted three runs for All-Stars in the third.

THREE IN NINTH

Brockie's single, in his third stolen base, a fielder's choice on Maskewich's ground ball and Welch's single gave them another in the seventh. Hits by, Brockie, Samis and Shandro, an error by Nelson, a couple of pilfered sacks plus a wild pitch meant three counters in the last heat.

Yanks got their second run in the seventh, Valenti reached first when Shandro misjudged his towering fly. Roberston singled, but Crumly went out pitcher to first and Nelson whiffed.

Burchfield hit sharply to left, scoring Valenti, but Brockie's peg to the plate was dead on and Samis tagged Roberston as he slid in.

Frankie Parker, Finally Takes National Title

FOREST HILLS, N.Y. Sept. 5.—(AP)—Frankie Parker finally made it. The tanned army sergeant who made his first effort to win the national men's tennis championship as a 16-year-old back in 1932, attained the coveted title Monday in his 12th effort, whipping William Talbert of Indianapolis, 6-4, 3-6, 6-3, 6-3 in the final of the 63rd national tournament.

Pauline Betz of Los Angeles, queen of American tennis players since the abdication of Alice Marble, won the women's title for the third straight year.

Margaret Osborne of San Francisco, beaten finalist in the women's singles Sunday, teamed with Louis Brough of Beverly Hills, Calif., to win the women's doubles title for the third successive year. They beat women's champion Pauline Betz of Los Angeles and Doris Hart of Miami, Fla., 4-6, 6-4, 6-4.

Another pair of defending champions, Miss Osborne and Talbert, also retained their mixed doubles title by defeating Dorothy May Bundy of Santa Monica, Calif., and Navy Lt. Don McNeill, 6-2, 6-3.

Purcell Triumphs in 3 Events Of City Tennis Championship

Andy "Shorts" Purcell made a "grand slam" in the city tennis tournament at Glenora courts over the week-end when he won in finals of three open events. He swept the men's singles title and combined with Ina Jacobs to capture the mixed doubles and with Walter McIntosh to cop the men's doubles championships. Norma Mackay of Garneau took the ladies' singles final to become the new champ in that divisoin.

The Glenora ace racquet wielder knocked over George Schmid of New Jersey, now playing at Civil Service, in the men's singles final on Monday afternoon in three straight sets 6-4, 6-3.

Purcell and Schmid were really pasting the ball and gave the large gallery a treat to some lovely driving exchanges. The title holder, however, was a little steadier and defeated the American for the championship.

In the semi-finals on Sunday, Purcell easily eliminated Ralph Jones by scores of 6-0, 6-1, 6-0 and Schmid won over Walter McIntosh 6-1, 6-2, 6-1, in a match which saw Schmid's sensational volleying and drive placements really "burn" up the court.

The mixed doubles was the first event "Shorts" won in. He and his partner Ina Jacobs defeated the highly regarded pair of George Schmid and Nora Mackay in three sets, 4-6, 6-2, 6-4. Schmid's specialty—the volleying combined with Norma's steady driving gave the unsuccessful finalists the first set, but the Purcell-Jacobs combination came back to take the other two and the title.

Purcell and McIntosh had it fairly easy in defeating Harry Kinloch and Les McManus in the men's doubles semi-final. They won by scores of 6-1, 6-1, 6-2. They displayed better driving and net play and were never in serious difficulty at any time.

Norma MacKay became the ladies' champion when she triumphed over Garneau club-mate Doris Walton in three straight sets 6-4, 6-4, 6-2. This was a long drawn out match that saw Norma play steadier to win.

Norma came from behind to win from Helen Wolfe in the semi-final on Sunday. Helen won the first set 7-5, but Norma took the second and then edged out the former in a good tennis match.

Final of the ladies' doubles was unable to be played yesterday and will be staged tonight on the 8:30 draw. The Mackay sisters, Norma and Lola, entered one bracket yesterday while Helen Wolfe and Sophie Mighall of Civil Service moved into the other.

The Bulletin and Mitchell Cup events and the secondary competitions are the only ones left to be completed and all these are expected, by tournament manager George Docherty, to be wound up on Thursday.

Andy "Shorts" Purcell, prominent in hockey and tennis in the city in past years, was again the big winner in the city tennis tournament which has concluded most of the major events. "Shorts" won the men's singles title and teamed up with Ina Jacobs to win the mixed doubles and Walter McIntosh to cop the men's open doubles championship.

Central Aeroliners Go Ahead In Fastball League Final

Central-Aeroliners blasted Kingaway Park on Saturday night and chalked up a 7-4 triumph over the USAAF Officers to take the lead for the first time in the best of five final for the City Men's Fastball League title.

Officers won the first game, but Centrals came back to tie it up and then go ahead on Saturday. Fourth tilt of the series will be played on Wednesday night.

Al Clow with four hits, including a triple and a double, was the big noise with the bat for the winners, getting a safety every trip to the plate. He also scored three of Centrals' seven runs.

Alex Fedick and Ken McAuley also had good nights at the plate, both getting two hits in four trips.

Both teams scored two in the first inning, but Centrals added a pair in the third on an error, two singles, a passed ball and a stolen base to take the lead, and they never headed although the Officers threatened in the ninth.

Same Teams Meet Tonight

Vancouver Girls Win Easily In Game With Walk-Rites

With errors figuring in every run, Vancouver Neons made their first appearance at Kingsway Park Monday and whitewashed the local Walk-Rites 9-0 in the first of two exhibitions here. These same clubs meet again tonight at 7 o'clock and then the Neons, whose destination is Cleveland, will leave for Saskatoon where they will play some more exhibitions.

The Vancouver team received outstanding pitching from four chuckers, which was backed up by wonderful defensive play. This, coupled with 10 Walk-Rite errors gave the visitors an easy win.

The four hurlers—Jean Melen, Ev. Philley, Grace Byers and Winnie Meyers—held the Walk-Rites, who were short some of their star players, to a pair of hits while serving up 13 strikeouts. Jean Melen turned in the best effort when she pitched no-hit ball for three innings before being relieved. Only three Walk-Rites got on base.

Annabelle Thompson went the distance for the locals and held the visitors to eight safeties, but received very poor support. She never allowed a single earned run.

Score by innings:

Walk-Rites	000 000 000	0	2 10
Vancouver	330 300 00x	9	8 0

Batteries: Walk-Rites—Thompson and Ford; Neons—Melen, Philley (4), Byers (6), Meyers (7) and Lyons and Wilson.

Umpires—Bible and Barlow.

Provincial Intermediate Final

Mannville Club Cops Series With Calgary CWAC Team

Mannville Bluebirds won the provincial intermediate girls fastball crown at Kingsway Park on Sunday afternoon when they took a two-game total point series from Calgary CW AC 16-15. They captured the first game 11-9, and although they dropped the second 6-5, they copped the Alberta title for the third time.

Two runs in the last of the ninth of the opener gave the Mannville club their victory in the initial game. And this proved to be the winning margin of the series. The runs came on two errors, a single, a walk and a double by Winnie Wells.

The Bluebirds played wonderful ball for the first four innings and were coasting along on an 8-0 lead when the Calgary club took advantage of some errors and began to hit, to tie the score with three markers in the top half of the ninth.

The Mannville girls' out-hit the CWAC team and played better defensively in the second clash, but the south champs managed to gain a 6-5 victory. A big fourth inning in which they tallied four runs set the stage for their triumph.

Iola Shoomaker was the main spark in the Mannville team. She worked on the mound for the entire 18 innings, and collected four hits in the two games—three in the first and one in the second.

Edmonton Splits With Saskatoon

SASKATOON, Sept. 5.—(CP)—Saskatoon Pats and Edmonton Pats Monday split a doubleheader to open the best-of-five series for the women's western Canada fastball championship. Saskatoon won the first game 4-3, Edmonton taking the second 7-5.

Muriel Wade of Saskatoon and Betty Carveth of Edmonton hooked up in a mound duel in the first game, allowing six and four hits respectively, with the local team turning in an errorless performance. A home run in the 11th inning by Theresia Lafleur provided the winning margin for Edmonton in the second game.

Steele and Dale Star at Calgary

CALGARY, Sept. 5.—(CP)—Led by Cpl. Tommy Steele of No. 2 Wireless School and a former Edmonton athlete, LAC Bill Dale from Vulcan and LAC G. Schilbroth, from No. 10 Repair Depot, Calgary, Royal Canadian Air Force representatives easily captured premier honors in the inter-services track and field meet here on Saturday.

With Steele, Dale and Schilbroth accounting for two victories each, air force athletes piled up 83 points. Canadian army was second with 15; Navy third, 13 and USAAF fourth with six.

Steele was clocked in 10 seconds flat in winning the 100 yards. Cpl. Plotnick, USAAF, was second.

Welsh Draw With RAF

Large O.C. Soccer Crowds On Hand for Thrilling Matches

By ALLAN NICKELSON

LONDON, Sept. 5.—(CP Cable)—Scores of thousands of football followers, their exuberance at the highest mark of the war because of the almost unbelievable good news from France, crowded Britain's soccer grounds Saturday as the second week of the sixth wartime season produced thrills and high scores.

The first representative match of the season was played at Wrexham, venerable cradle of Welsh soccer, where 12,000 watched an all-star Welsh team of international standard hold a picked RAF squad to a 1-1 draw.

There was an Allied flavor to the match at Nottingham. Paul Pawlow, member of the Polish armed forces, playing his first game with Lincoln City, capped a great display by scoring four minutes from the end to give Lincoln a 3-4 victory over Nottingham County in a league north set-to.

A pair of young Air Training Corps stars were a feature of the league north match at Blackpool where the home side beat Rochdale 5-0. Seventeen-year-old Jack Cross at outside right and 18-year-old Don Eakin his partner played like veterans in their first league match and combined to score the final tally.

Bruce Trigg, Birmingham centre forward, scored all four goals as his club hammered Port Vale 4-0 before a crowd of 12,000. The day's biggest gathering—18,000—saw Sheffield Wednesday edge Sheffield United 1-0, while 12,500 cheered Liverpool to a 2-0 triumph over Stockport County.

In other league north matches before crowds of 10,000 each, Stoke beat Aston Villa 3-1 and Derby County smashed Nottingham Forest 5-0.

League south games saw Arsenal, weakened by the RAF call for players against Wales, take a 4-0 thrashing from Tottenham Hotspurs while nearly 14,000 Londoners looked on. Brentford beat Portsmouth 4-2, and Chelsea and Aldershot drew 1-1. Bath edged Lovells Athletic 2-1 in a league west affair and Bristol whitewashed Cardiff 3-0.

Social Credit Names Hlynka At Vegreville

Despite the busy harvest season more than 160 delegates attended the Social Credit Party's nominating convention for the Vegreville Dominion riding held Saturday at Mundare. Anthony Hlynka, the sitting member for the riding, was nominated as the party's standard bearer.

More than 400 delegates and guests attended the afternoon and evening sessions of the convention which was addressed by Hon. Solon E. Low, provincial treasurer and leader of the National Social Credit party, F. M. Baker, MLA for Clover Bar, and the candidate and his wife.

"Advocates of economic security in exchange for the relinquishment of personal freedom will soon be pushed into the background in Canada, and Social Credit will take the lead as the people of the Dominion learn what it has to offer them," Mr. Low stated.

Mr. Baker paid tribute to the people of Alberta for their decisive victory in the recent provincial election. He said that Canada, in the near future will be looking to Social Credit as an alternative to the present outworn economic system.

CLEAR INDICATION

He said that the poor showing of the Socialists in the last three provincial elections is clear indication that the Canadian people have repudiated the totalitarian philosophy advocated by that party.

The following officers for the Vegreville federal riding were elected: George S. Chaba, Egremont, president; J. M. Popil, MLA, Waskatenau, vice-president, and Joseph Sawchuk, Mundare, secretary-treasurer.

Anita and Armand

ONE NIGHT ONLY—MAKE RESERVATIONS NOW!

Nominated

Anthony Hlynka, sitting member for the Dominion constituency of Vegreville, who was nominated the Social Credit party's standard bearer in the next general election. The nominating convention was held Saturday at Mundare.

Noted Dance Team To Appear Here

Anita and Armand, who have danced their way practically all over the world, will make their first appearance in Edmonton the night of Sept. 12 at The Barn.

One of the foremost dance teams in the British Empire, the sophisticated elegance of the couple's polished performance has entertained many of the rulers of Europe, and they have made appearances in aid of the Red Cross.

They will give only one performance in this city, when they appear as a special floor show attraction at The Barn.

Grain Acreage Shows Increase

A definite increase in grain acreage being harvested by combine is apparent in Alberta this year, according to O. S. Longman, deputy minister of agriculture. While most combine equipment is in the south, it tends to move farther north every year.

The harvest labor situation throughout the province is satisfactory, with all help requirements reasonably met, Mr. Longman said Tuesday. Approximately 2,700 men, soldiers and civilians, will come from other parts of Canada to help harvest Alberta crops.

Officials pointed out that threshers' licenses are not needed in the province this year. Legislation requiring a license before starting threshing operations was cancelled in March.

Leduc Veterans Leading Shots Red Deer Meet

Leduc unit of the Veterans' Volunteer Reserve, under command of L. St. C. Gaetz, took most of the honors at the annual field day target shoot held in Red Deer Sunday, at which VVR units from North and South Edmonton, Calgary, Ponoka, Leduc, Red Deer, Innisfail and Sylvan Lake were represented.

Fifty veterans made the trip from Edmonton, North battalion being commanded by J. Gordon Butler, and the South battalion by Percy W. Johnson. Maj. R. C. Arthurs, M.C., chief executive officer for the province, attended by Sgt.-Maj. Jack Jones, went from headquarters, having as his guests W. J. Williams, MLA, secretary-manager of Canadian Legion in Edmonton, and Capt. I. Stewart-Irvine, former office, commanding South Edmonton battalion.

Weather was ideal for the shoot and some good scores were registered. Red Deer unit, under command of Capt. John Drever, had worked hard to perfect all arrangements, and succeeded in making the meet one of the best ever held in the province.

HELD AT ARMORY

Before lunch, which was held in the Red Deer Armory, each contestant was allowed five practice shots, getting down to serious competition in the afternoon. More than a hundred took part in the individual shoot, while in the team event all units present were represented.

Before leaving Red Deer, the visitors were entertained at a chicken dinner, arrangements being in the hands of P. W. Smith of Red Deer. Major Arthurs thanked Captain Drever and his unit, complimenting him for the efficient manner in which all details had been attended to.

OTHER SPEAKERS

Other speakers included Gordon Butler and Percy Johnson for Edmonton; Maj. F. K. Beach, Calgary; L. St. C. Gaetz, Leduc, and W. J. Williams. It was announced by Captain Johnson, officer commanding the South Edmonton battalion, that his unit will be holding a field day on Sunday, Sept. 24, and he invited all VVR units in the province to participate.

THE RESULTS

Following are the results:

High individual score: J. Horne, Leduc, with 94; second, E. Lake, Leduc, 92.

Team event: Leduc (Messrs. Horne, Lake, Jones, Johnson and Letourneau), with a score of 430; second, North Edmonton battalion (Messrs. Moorhouse, Cox, Gibbons, Nash and Bramley-Moore), 425.

High aggregate: Deugau, South Edmonton battalion, 184; second, Jim Horne, Leduc, 181.

Rex. W. E. Tetley, of Red Deer, was range officer for the day, assisted by R. S. Gillespie. T. Moorhouse is musketry officer for the North Edmonton battalion, and Art. Mackay for the South Side unit.

Western Air Lines Gets New Machines

Three additional 21-passenger Douglas ships will be added to Western Air Lines' fleet this month providing new air schedules which will break up traffic bottlenecks and increase seat capacity as high as 100 per cent at some points on the company's California-to-Canada network.

Increased aircraft utilization, as perfected by Western with a new record in its Alaskan Military Wing, coupled with an augmented commercial fleet, will increase seating capacity 100 per cent in the Salt Lake-Lethbridge, Canada division; 25 per cent in the Los Angeles-Las Vegas-Salt Lake City division; 50 per cent in the Los Angeles-Long Beach-San Diego division and 100 per cent in the Los Angeles-San Francisco division.

New schedules have been set up at the Lethbridge gateway for direct connections with Trans-Canada Air Lines for Canada and Alaska at Salt Lake City and with other carriers for additional trans-continental connections; and at Los Angeles for direct connections to Latin America.

The initial Edmon-Teens Club dance Friday was attended by several hundred of teen-age people, and was held in the west hall of the YMCA, which was decorated with jive slogans.

In the picture, taken during the ceremony, from the left are Gilbert E. Gee, carnival treasurer; Harold L. Weir, chairman, War Services Council of Northern Alberta; Ray W. Miller, secretary, Gyro Club of Edmonton; Herbert E. Hamly, president, Gyro Club, and E. Ted Richardson, carnival manager. Other Gyros who assisted in carnival plans included Raymond G. Turner, merchandise manager, and Harold C. Wright, supervisor, Canadian Legion War Services. The Gyro club's share of the carnival proceeds will be used for operation and replacement of equipment in the city's three Gyro playgrounds, and for extension of work of the Gyrette Club. The latter organization has been active in sending clothing parcels overseas. Quilts, layettes, children's clothing and other needed articles have been sent to bombed-out areas in Britain at regular intervals since the war started. Gyrettes' share of the carnival proceeds will enable this work to be speeded up considerably.

The Inquiring Reporter

THE QUESTION

A newspaper story concerning the German evacuation of Brussels, told of the threat to the population there, that they (the Germans) would come back again. Had you been a resident of such an occupied area and heard a like statement, just when liberation was coming, how do you think you would have taken it?

THE ANSWERS

REG BELL, traveller: I think I would be tempted to knock a few of them out. I also think the others how they and their kind would be treated if they ever showed their faces around there again. On the other hand, with liberation imminent, one might well let the enemy rant. That's about all there would be left for them to do, anyway.

S. J. FORTIER, waiter: I think we've made a mistake. The Nazis have got a sense of humor, else how could they say such a thing? Maybe they're full of dope, or something, and believe that they can look for Belgian hospitality after this war, just as they received it after the First Great War. I don't think any of my countrymen will be very cordial to any kind of German for a long time to come. I won't, at any rate.

A. R. B., railroader: With the siege lifted, I think I could joke about it to the extent that we would welcome back the Germans—and show them our "Brussel sprouts". I don't believe there's a nationality, however, with the audacity of the German. I do believe, though, he really believes what he says; he's that kind of being.

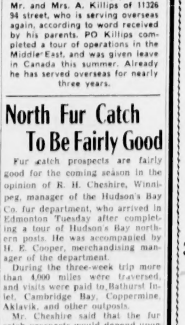

Agriculture Dept. Officers in City

Methods of handling the price set-up for registered seeds at which the special products board will market seed for export will be discussed with Alberta Seed Growers at a meeting to be held here Tuesday. Nelson Young, seed administrator for the Dominion department of agriculture, stated on his arrival here from Ottawa. He is accompanied by Fred Perrin, Ottawa, manager of the seed export branch, department of agriculture.

He said the main market at present is in the United States, but a large order has been received from overseas. Present indications are that more seed than in previous years would be available for export.

Vitamins were discovered by scientists combatting the tropical disease of beriberi.

Overseas

PO Kenneth L. Killips, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. Killips of 11326 98 street, who is serving overseas again, according to word received by his parents. PO Killips completed a tour of operations in the Middle East, and was given leave in Canada this summer. Already he has served overseas for nearly three years.

North Fur Catch To Be Fairly Good

Fur catch prospects are fairly good for the coming season in the opinion of R. H. Cheshire, Winnipeg, manager of the Hudson's Bay Co. fur department, who arrived in Edmonton Tuesday after completing a tour of Hudson's Bay north-ern posts. He was accompanied by H. E. Cooper, merchandising manager of the department.

During the three-week trip more than 4,000 miles were traversed, and visits were paid to Bathurst Inlet, Cambridge Bay, Coppermine, Aklavik, and other outposts.

Mr. Cheshire said that the fur catch prospects would depend upon the prices for fur, adding that the fur sale in New York on Sept. 12 would give an indication of these price trends.

He said that on the whole there were less fires in the northland this year than in the last five years, but there appeared to be bad fires between Hay River and Fort Smith and between Talston River and Fort Smith.

The following men from Edmonton recently enlisted in the Canadian Army (Active): George N. Peery, William H. Fielder, Raymond A. Reed, Victor K. Campbell, Boulton J. Brandrick, Howard A. P. McDonald, and Florian Koncur.

DOROTHY DIX SAYS—

Selfish Mothers Ruin Lives of Children

World Is Full of Lonely Bachelors, Spinsters Who Are Victims of Heavy Demands on Filial Duty; Their Lives Are Ruined

I have a letter from a woman whose husband died when their only child was five years old. The husband left no estate and the mother bravely went to work to support the little lad. During all the weary years in which the boy was growing up she solaced herself with a dream. It was that when he was a man that they would establish a home together and that she would keep house for him and they would live happily ever afterwards. He was never to love any woman but her, never to marry.

The boy had his dream, too, which was to make life easy for his mother, and as soon as he began to earn money he made her Castle in Spain turn into a reality and she was blissfully happy for a year or two. Then Fate dealt her what she regards as its cruelest blow. Her son fell in love with a girl and married her.

Now the mother is the most miserable of women because she feels that her son has betrayed her.

"I gave up everything for him", she moans, "and he would not give up a silly, little, fluffy-headed girl for me."

She harps upon the debt he owes her and will not see that she is a female Shylock who is demanding to be paid with the pound of flesh nearest his heart. For what is life to the man who is forced to forego all thoughts of love and all hope of a wife and children?

LONELY BACHELORS

This mother is not alone in her insistence that her son should give up thirty or forty years of his life to her because she gave up ten or fifteen years of her life to him. The world is full of lonely old bachelors and old maids who have let selfish mothers drive such unequal bargains with them in the name of filial duty.

It is sadly true that many parents run a sentimental debit account with their children which they are continually presenting for payment. They are hard and ruthless collectors. Because Mother took care of them when they were babies she often demands that her sons and daughters devote their whole lives to coddling her.

Because she stayed at home with her youngsters she feels that they are in duty bound to be fettered to her chair for life, and that they have no right to marry or leave her to go where fortune calls them. And if they balk at paying so high a price for being reared, she backs up her bill with tears and gets it with compound interest.

I am not arguing that children do not owe anything to their parents. Far from it. If they have had good and kind and tender fathers and mothers, they owe them love and respect and appreciation and every consideration. They owe them support, if they are poor. They owe them companionship and little attentions so they may not feel themselves neglected. But they do not owe them the sacrifice of their whole lives.

Parents should not be usurers. They should not ask of their children more than they have given them.

Points for Parents

By EDYTH THOMAS WALLACE

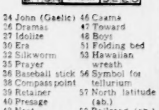

Mother: "Isn't it fine Bettie is starting to school this fall? I know she'll love it and will have so many things to tell me each day when she comes home."

Mother: "I'm going to be terribly lonesome when Bettie starts to school. With John overseas and the older children busy, I've depended on Bettie for company."

Do not burden a child with mother's loneliness.

He came close to winning the national mixed team-of-four championship. He and his teammates, Mrs. Wilkinson Wagar of Atlanta, Ga., and Edward Cohn and Marie Basher of Philadelphia finished in second place in this event.

Here is an interesting hand played by Crawford. After winning the first trick with the club ace, West cashed the ace of hearts and felt certain of defeating the contract. His hand looked good for three trump tricks. Another heart was led, Crawford winning with dummy's jack, and discarding a low diamond from his hand. He won the next trick with the queen of clubs and led a low spade, dummy's queen winning. The queen of hearts was led, and although it was good, Crawford ruffed, led a club to dummy's king and trumped the king of hearts with the six of spades. Now he cashed the ace and king of diamonds and led his last diamond. West had only the ace, jack and ten of trumps left, and thus was forced to trump and concede the contract-fulfilling trick to Crawford's king.

Your Baby And Mine

By MYRTLE MEYER ELDRED

It is easier to remain dependent than to develop independence. For that reason children get into the habit of letting someone else make all their decisions for them. Then if the results are unpleasant they need take no blame.

But this is not the road to being a grownup. It is essential for children, by easy stages, to accept more and more responsibility for their own decisions. In this way they develop judgment by noting what happens and suffering some of the consequences of their behavior.

It should be clear, though, that it is unwise to force independent decisions on the child before he is willing or able to make them. During the growing-up period the parent will always have to be on hand to help the child make wise decisions and to spare him the results of any which she can clearly foresee would be physically or socially disastrous to him.

Mrs. S. K. asks that something be written about small children deciding things for themselves. I have been visiting in a home and when this child was two he was always asked if he wanted farina or bread and milk for supper, or if he wanted to wear the blue or the brown suit and he was so confused by these demands that now at five years he insists upon having his own way about everything and then it does not always please him.

"I never thought it necessary to consult my small son about choices of food or clothing and he ate happily the cereal I served him and let me take off his sweater if I thought it too warm."

The practice of offering a child of two or three choices of conduct, any one of which would be desirable, is a good one. In this case the mistaken parents began the practice before the child was ready for it and made them feel that the only important thing was what he wanted to do, not a choice of various permissable things.

It does confuse a child when he is loaded with responsibilities for making choices when he is too young to care. The result of such independence is bitter. He'd rather be told what to do than have to say what he wants to do. Parents have to balance such experiences wisely. Otherwise, in fear of making a mistake, the child may refuse all the opportunities for making his own decisions, or, in heady confidence, throw all restraint to the winds.

Our leaflet, "Teaching Independence", may be had by sending a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for it to Myrtle Meyer Eldred, in care of this newspaper.

War Kitchen

By GAYNOR MADDOX

There are four "musts" for a school child's breakfast: fruit and a cereal, eggs at least four times a week, enriched or whole wheat bread with butter, and milk.

Apple compote with shredded wheat is hearty breakfast for school children.

APPLE COMPOTE WITH SHREDDED WHEAT BISCUITS
(Serves 4)

Four tart greenings, ½ cups sugar, ½ cups water, 2 tablespoons apple jelly, 4 shredded wheat biscuits, nutmeg.

Wash and pare each apple halfway down from the stem—the remaining skin will act as a cup. Remove cores. Bring sugar and water to boiling. In this syrup cook the apples two at a time until cooked through and a little glassy and glazed on the outside. Remove to serving dishes. If syrup is a little thin after apples are cooked, simmer gently until richly thickened. Add the fat and stir until melted. Break the shredded wheat biscuits into the quarters and arrange around the apples. Pour syrup over top of fruit and biscuits. Add a light sprinkling of grated nutmeg. Serve this in a wide-spreading soup bowl if you like, to allow the children to flood the bowls with milk. They will eat every bite. Note, too, the apples can be cooked the night before, for serving at breakfast time. Syrup could be reheated, if desired, for serving.

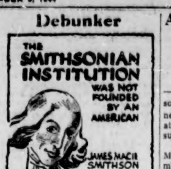

Tomorrow's Menu

BREAKFAST—Orange juice, apple compote with shredded wheat biscuits, eggs with cheese on toast, whole wheat toast, butter, coffee, milk.

LUNCH — Fruit cup, casserole of red kidney beans, onions and green peppers, enriched hard rolls, ray carrot sticks, stewed plums, tea, milk.

DINNER—Fried liver and bacon, mashed potatoes, grilled tomato halves, mixed vegetable salad, French dressing, enriched bread, butter, seedless grapes, oatmeal cookies, coffee, milk.

It is an unusual thing for a person to leave his fortune to people of a country he has never visited or known, yet this is exactly what James Macie Smithson did when he died in 1829. He was an Englishman, and had never seen America yet he left his estate of half a million dollars to the United States for the purpose of "founding at Washington under the name of Smithsonian Institution, an establishment for the increase and diffusion of knowledge among men."

Personal Health Service

By WILLIAM BRADY, M.D.

YEAST AND PEANUT BUTTER

Dried brewer's yeast (not yeast used in baking) ordinarily comes in powder form. It is far richer in vitamins than the live yeast used for leaning, and it does not cause fermentation when taken internally, as live yeast does.

Dried yeast, the fermentative action of which has been killed by heat, is richer in most of the food components or factors of the vitamin B complex, particularly B1 (thiamin) B2 (G or riboflavin) and nicotine acid (niacin, anti-pellagra factor) than any natural food.

In sections of the south where pellagra has been prevalent the health authorities have encouraged the sale of dried yeast powder in bulk by groceries and other stores so that people could buy it and consume fair quantities of it every day to prevent or cure early or mild pellagra.

As Dr. Jas. S. McLester points out, in his book Nutrition and Diet in Health and Disease (Saunders, '39), yeast, if it is to be effective, must be taken in what may be regarded as enormous quantities. "We have found it of advantage to give 180 to 270 Gm. (one-half pound, more or less) of powdered brewers' yeast daily in the case of severely ill pellagrins. This is best tolerated when given in iced milk or eggnog in doses of about 20 Gm. (rounded tablespoonful) each."

Fresh liquid brewer's yeast is perfectly good for leavening dough if it is procured from the brewery at least twice a week and kept refrigerated until it is to be used. Applied comfortably warm, as a poultice—gauze pads copiously saturated with the fresh liquid yeast, changed twice daily, it is an excellent remedy for old indolent varicose ulcers on the leg; it stimulates the healing process and cleans up the ulcer. The applications should be continued constantly for a week or more—until the surface has a pink, velvety, smooth, shiny appearance on a level, but not higher than, the surrounding normal skin. At each change of poultice or dressing bathe the ulcer gently by allowing comfortably warm salt solution to run over it for a few minutes—heaping teaspoonful common table salt in quart of water.

It is not difficult to take small amounts of dried powdered yeast straight every day. When it comes to taking several ounces of it every day, various expedients to vary the taste or the monotony may be employed. Taking it stirred in ice cold milk, in eggnog, in tomato juice are welcome variations. The dried yeast powder may be taken sprinkled over cereals or added to bouillon or other soups, or mixed with catsup in a cocktail. One palatable way is to mix one-fourth pound of dried powdered yeast thoroughly with a pound of peanut butter—this is stable, palatable, low in water content, highly nutritious, especially if the peanut butter contains some crunchy bits of the peanut.

Now for Lamb

There's nothing so delicious as a leg of lamb, and now's the time to serve it!

Now that lamb's in season we can enjoy this tender, juicy roast often and with a clear conscience.

Remember that the delicate flavour of lamb is best preserved by slow roasting in a 325 degree oven. Do not cover. Allow 35 minutes per pound for the small roasts (under 5 lbs.) and 30 minutes per pound for larger ones.

Serve with fresh green peas, parsley new potatoes and, of course, mint sauce, and you'll have a dinner fit for a king!

And for a second appearance what can be more delectable than cold roast lamb with a tossed green salad and cold mint sauce. Serve a hot soup to begin the meal.

Martha Logan

MARTHA LOGAN'S MINT SAUCE

Mint Sauce with lamb is practically a must.

4 tbsps. chopped fresh mint
2 tbsps. sugar
1 cup vinegar

Place the ingredients together in sauce boat or bowl two or three hours before serving. Allow to steep. If dried mint is used, allow to stand in hot water to cover before adding vinegar and sugar.

Fall Fashion Show Is Here

The fall fashion parade is underway and milady will have the finest selection of wartime styles, and colors in five years as were shown at the fall opening of Thompson and Dynes at their store on Tuesday and will be shown again Wednesday afternoon.

An orchestra was in attendance from 2 until 5 p.m. and members of the Junior Hospital League served refreshments.

Black in numbers predominate again but complementing this most popular fall color will be an entirely new range of reds, blues and browns.

WAR INFLUENCE

The war influence is strong in the new textiles. Wool is proving one of the most popular of the new shades is Cossack steel, a rich, deep brown. Another of the new browns is Brazil coffee, a shade named in honor of the Latin-American Allies.

The top red for the season is Marcella, a carnation blush rose which has the effect of crushed raspberry and cream. This shade is liked in one- and two-piece dresses for young women from 18 to 35. Framboise, a trifle darker, is another new red in demand by those ranging all the way from 18 to 60.

Acanthus is the newest thing in blue. It's a medium shade with a touch of green, and lots of grey. It is popular among all age groups. The early fall bride appears to favor metal grey, while forest green is as popular as ever for afternoon wear.

Dominating the field for afternoon wear is the one-piece dress with lines which concentrate on a high neckline. Also achieving some degree of popularity are the two-color numbers.

SHORT DRESSES

Favored for fall evening wear are short dresses with a number of new features such as the drop-shoulder and deep arm holes with emphasis on an extremely small waistline.

Feature among the winter coats which are fur-lined, is a model in American Beauty wool with lining of Kolinsky.

Velveteen frocks for the younger group are smart and are in colors of rust, green and violets. Wool frocks in pastel shades are fine for business. Suits are in silk crepe or fine wool in shades of rust, green, brown, soft blue and black. Also in suits are black satin cocktail models. For afternoon wear are shown frocks in black crepe with sequin trimming.

Hats are outstanding and are in velvets, satins, hatter's plush and felts and trimmed with feathers.

Blush satin, white brocade, and lace fashioned the wedding gowns.

Models include: Mrs. J. S. Charlesworth, Mrs. F. W. Jean, Mrs. A. S. Hall, Mrs. R. Kirkpatrick, Mrs. R. R. Griener, Mrs. R. F. Howell, Mrs. D. Fraser and Mrs. Jon Falkenberg.

Authority Says Housewife Soon To Try Cooking Dehydrated Food

In a month or six weeks, dehydrated foods will be released to the Canadian housewife, according to Miss Alice Stevens, B Sc., formerly domestic science teacher in the Vernon High School, and now keeping vitamins under control in the dehydrating plant of Bulmans Limited Vernon, B. C.

Miss Stevens who is also editor of the Women's Department of "Country Life" was in Edmonton briefly Saturday on her way home from the meeting of the executive of the Canadian Home Economics association held in Kenora, Ont.

EDUCATIONAL CAMPAIGN

In an interview Saturday with a Bulletin reporter, Miss Stevens said that dehydrated foods have previously been used only for the armed forces overseas and the average housewife has very little idea how to use them. Accordingly an educational campaign will be held to instruct cooks on the use of dehydrated foods, she said.

There are 12 to 15 dehydrating plants in the Dominion, but the one for which Miss Stevens is employed is considered to be the largest. In five weeks at this plant, 3,000 tons of cabbage were dehydrated and made ready for shipment abroad. Miss Stevens is on hand to test the product at all stages of dehydrating.

At first, she said, the vegetables are prepared, pealed and cleaned etc. They are then cut into dices and pre-cooked. With the heat passed to 150 degrees in a special tunnel, the product is inserted into thin tunnel for drying. Here the air velocity and humidity are controlled, and the moisture content of the vegetables is brought down to five per cent. Lastly, they are put into air tight containers.

Although dehydrated foods will have a definite place on the post war market, the visitor said they will not take the place of canned foods fruits and vegetable. Rather, they will be used to vary the diet. Dehydrated foods she said are apt to be tasteless and women will have to learn the art of cooking and spicing them.

When asked if she thought the war had helped to make people more nutrition minded, the visitor said "definitely. Now more than ever people realize that a good diet will pay dividends."

Miss Stevens will visit Edmonton again in October.

Three Horses Taken For Holiday Outing

Shades of the old west, when horse-stealing was not uncommon, were brought to the attention of city police over the week-end, when three horses disappeared under the cloak of darkness. They were still missing on Monday.

Officers were informed that two of the animals, owned by a Chinese market gardener on 97 street, had been led out of the stable sometime late Saturday night or early Sunday morning. The third horse was taken from the back yard of Glen McPherson, 11924 69 street, Sunday.

Police were inclined to believe that the taking of the animals had been done by persons who were not going to be denied a holiday outing.

According to Mr. McPherson, his horse had been tethered to a tree in the yard. About 11 p.m. Sunday he went into the yard, to find the halter lying on the ground, the gate swinging open, and the horse gone. The report of the market gardener's loss was made by Clyde Smith, 11216 59 street.

Mr. McPherson's horse was described as a bay gelding, five years old. Of the other animals, one was black, the other, bay.

Entered House: Took Tire, Beer

City police were looking for the person who entered a city home Sunday afternoon, by means of one window, and who left through another, taking with him a case of beer and a new automobile tire. Owner of the articles was said to be Sarto Latramboise, 6934 120 avenue, who informed officers that the home was entered during his absence.

Investigators found that the culprit had entered through a cheese-cloth-covered window which necessitated a climb over the kitchen stove. He apparently went through the house, finding the tire under a bed and the beer in the basement. He then departed through another window, breaking the screen on his way out.

Driver Arrested After Accident

Peter Mihalynuk, R.R. 3, South Edmonton, was placed under arrest and charged with dangerous driving shortly after the truck he was operating at 91 avenue and 99 street collided with a trolley bus operated by Ernest Bamber, 11312 95A street, about 6.10 p.m. Sunday.

The left front wheel of the bus "climbed over" the left front wheel of the light delivery truck, demolishing it and the radiator and pinning the wreckage beneath the trolley.

Mihalynuk, who drove the truck, was accompanied by Stephen Warenchuk of the Pine Creek mine. Both men stated that they had attempted to pass another bus as a second auto came towards them. At the same time, the first bus, which was approaching them, caught the bumper of the lighter truck, dragging the vehicle under it. Neither of the men in the truck, nor any of the 12 passengers in the Mihalynuk pleaded guilty to the charge of dangerous driving in the court of Magistrate A. I. Millar, K.C. Tuesday morning, and was fined $30 or six weeks. He chose to be placed on the interdict list, rather than lose his driver's license, he told the magistrate.

Shoplifter Takes Goods Worth $16

An Edmonton woman, placed under arrest as she was leaving a departmental store Saturday, was charged with theft of goods valued at more than $16, according to city police.

The woman was said to have had in her possession two pairs of shoes, two pairs of boys' stockings, two pairs of lady's stockings, two sweaters, two feminine undergarments, a pair of braces, a bolt and socket, a tube of tooth paste and a half-pound of grapes.

The woman, Mrs. Alice M. Tessier of Edmonton, pleaded guilty to the charge of theft when she came before Magistrate A. I. Millar, KC, in city police court Tuesday morning, and was fined $20 or 30 days.

Rye Futures Drop In Erratic Trade

WINNIPEG, Sept. 5—(CP)—Rye futures dipped almost three cents in erratic trading on Winnipeg grain exchange today to establish new season lows for December and May.

At the close final quotations were 2 to 2⅜ cents lower, October at 1.01⅛b, December 98½-⅜c, May 99⅝.

Liquidation was prompted by sharp breaks in the Chicago market and through most of the session selling by locals, commission houses and Chicago interests outweighed support.

No export trade in wheat was uncovered. Mills were credited with purchasing 250,000 bushels of wheat for shipment to eastern points.

War News Cuts Grain Futures

CHICAGO, Sept. 5—(AP)—The swift Allied advance through the Lowlands and France caused commission house liquidation today and practically all grain futures dipped to new seasonal lows. There were rallies at times, largely on short-covering, but the market showed little real recovery power.

Wheat closed ⅛-1⅜ cents lower, Oats were off ⅝-1⅛ cents. Rye was 1⅝-2⅜ cents down. Barley was 1¼-2½c lower.

EDMONTON, Sept. 5—Total receipts: Cattle 667, calves 142, hogs 211, sheep 187.

There are far too many plain and in-between kinds on offer for the good of trade. There is practically no outlet for this class and farmers are again advised to finish their cattle before shipping.

LIVESTOCK REPORT

Edmonton stockyards report for the month of August.

Total receipts for the month of August, 1944, consisted of 8,240 cattle, 2,702 calves, 7,761 hogs, and 4,609 sheep as compared to the same period last year shows an increase of 1,144 cattle, 1,121 calves, 1,152 hogs and 1,354 sheep.

There was fair action on the cattle market throughout the past month, with all classes of good killers in demand, receipts of this particular class being insufficient at times to meet requirements. The bulk of the offerings were of the common to medium variety and very hard to move. Prices were from 50c to $1 per cwt. lower on steers and cows, with heifers holding steady. The high for the month was $12.50 per cwt. paid for a few choice steers.

Stockers and feeders of suitable quality in fair demand, but the plain and common kinds were practically unsaleable and definitely not wanted. Better quality steers sold from $8 to $8.50 with a few at $9. Common kinds down to a low of $5 per cwt. Heifers $8 down and stock cows $6.50 down.

The calf market was unchanged. Receipts were liberal, but general quality very ordinary. The bulk of good to choice handyweights traded from $11 to $12. Common kinds down to a low of $5.50.

The hog market was unchanged throughout. A's $16.35, B1's $15.95, plus the government bonus of $3 on A grade and $2 on B1. Sows live weight $8.75, sows dressed $11 per cwt. Feeder hogs were in demand at prices ranging from $12 to $14 per cwt. according to weight and quality.

Sheep and lamb market opened steady but declined somewhat from 25c to 50c per cwt. lower and at the close of trading the following prices prevailed. Good to choice handy weight locals $10.50 to $11, off cars $11.25 to $11.50, yearlings mostly from $6 down and good light ewes $5 down.

The value of the permits for the eight-month period of last year was $2,264,225, according to a report filed with the city commissioners by Maxwell C. Dewar, city architect.

The 1944 home building program is considered remarkable when it is taken into account that the 1943 total was increased by 250 homes built by Wartime Housing Ltd. City architect's department officials had estimated that the number of dwellings to be built this year would not exceed 600.

TOTAL VALUE

The total value of all permits issued for the eight-month period ended Aug. 31, 1944 amounted to $4,656,160 compared with $4,818,560 for the same period of last year, a decrease of $153,400. Permits issued during August this year amounted to $321,105 compared with $300,330 for the same month last year.

During 1944 there were taken out permits for 52 commercial buildings with a permit value of $189,575; eight permits for institutional structures with a value of $1,794,745, one permit for an apartment house costing $18,000, and 277 permits for miscellaneous structures, the value of which was $70,440.

Permits issued for alterations and repairs to all types of buildings amounted to $613,453, which $270,955 was for alterations and repairs to homes.

ON ADJUSTMENTS

In the eight-month period this year 53 permits were taken out to adjust permits previously issued where the cost declared fell below the actual construction figures. The total of these permits was $85,150.

In the 1943 period permits were issued for three office buildings; 14 for public buildings, the amount of which was $1,752,800, and 21 commercial buildings of a value of $149,950, while 800 permits were issued for alterations and repairs amounting to $530,435.

Since Sept. 1, nine permits have been issued for dwellings with a value of $31,200. The permits were issued to: M. Schodt, 10333 146 street $4,000; C. E. Truscott, 10815 86 avenue $3,000; W. Poirier, 11168 71 street $3,000; W. W. Bowen, 9826 100 street $1,700; E. Morgan, 11604 130 avenue $4,000; A. W. Boyes, 10531 87 avenue $3,000; J. Krysa, 10141 83 avenue $6,000; N. L. Herd, 14713 103 avenue $2,900 and R. Smith, 10120 83 avenue $4,500.

An ash-tray of cigarette butts which had been placed on the bed was believed responsible for a slight blaze which occurred in a bed at the rear of 11433 89 street, about 10:15 p.m. Monday. A chemical line extinguished the blaze which damaged a mattress on the bed.

Pensions Act Is Explained To Gathering

The Old Age Pensions Act and administration were explained by Alex Blackie, superintendent of the department of Old Age Pensions for the province of Alberta, to the Alberta Pensioners' Society Monday night, and their organization was praised as being one of great benefit to the government and the people. The well-attended gathering was held in the IOOF hall on 103 street. It was the first meeting after a summer recess.

Briefly reviewing the history of the act, Mr. Blackie said, "The Dominion government inaugurated the Old Age Pensions Act in 1927. It came into effect in this province in 1929 but it was not until 1935 that it came into effect in Quebec.

MUCH MISUNDERSTOOD

"This act is very much misunderstood. A great part of our work is correcting this miss-information," said Mr. Blackie.

Three regulations, explained as prior to modifications in April of this year and their interpretation now, namely, residence, income and gratuity, constituted the main topic. Other facts dealing with these points were brought up. Comparisons in rates in the provinces were noted.

Speaking on the financial care with which the pensions were distributed by the government, Mr. Blackie said, "if war payments are as carefully scrutinized and checked as old age pensions, there will hardly be any chance for graft."

Entertainment was presented by way of a community sing-song led by Jack Jones and accompanied by Mrs. J. B. Roginson at the piano. Violin selections were played by Edward Balish and D. M. Hunter. Mrs. S. Dunbar gave a recitation and Donald R. Curtis, graphologist on character reading through handwriting, presented basic facts and principles in this art.

Mrs. C. W. Lee, wife of the vice-president, and one of the directors of the society, was presented with a bouquet of gladiolus.

The president, Edward C. Fisher, acted as chairman of the gathering.

Consumer ceilings in British Columbia will be about six cents a basket higher than last year.

ed for another all-time record as transactions completed by the department up to Aug. 31 amounted to $579,653, compared, with $496,247 for the same period of 1943, an increase of $143,406.

PREVIOUS HIGH

Last year was the previous record sales year for the department, being slightly ahead of transactions total for 1929 the previous high year.

Sales during August this year amounted to $73,336 compared with $63,603 for the same month last year, an increase of $9,733.

A feature of the business transacted by the department is the number of purchases made by persons desiring to build their own homes.

RENTALS COLLECTED

Rentals collected by the department up to August 31, 1944, amounted to $110,911 compared with $115,266 for the same period last year, a decrease of $4,355.

Collections for August this year amounted to $15,791 compared with $16,308 for the same month last year, a decrease of $517.

The relinquishing of city owned property leased to the United States government, and redemption of houses forfeited for taxes, and which were rented by the department, is given as the reason for the decline in rentals collections.
